"In short—as it goes in the world—They eat, and they drink, and they sleep; They talk, and they walk, and they woo; They sigh, and they laugh, and they weep."

Senator Smoot journeys out to Rapid City to tell the President how to run the Government. People seem to be taking advantage of the fact that Wayne B. Wheeler is on vacation.

Secretary Kellogg makes it clear to Great Britain that the navy we have in mind to reduce at this time is not the American Navy, which has already done its banting.

In a last effort to save her worthless life Ruth Snyder appeals to the chivalry of a man who has proved he hasn't any.

The Marine Corps, always noted for its chivalry, decides that a flapper clerk has as much right as a man to smoke cigarettes at her work, but how about putting her dogs on the desk?

Senator Walsh, who talks like the seventh son of a seventh son, looks into his crystal ball again. He ought to open a place on Seventh street.

The pan American conference lights a fire under the gridle.

The Prince of Wales, the well-known equestrian, who spends half his time on a horse, will stop off to view the Niagara falls, the most famous in the world next to his own.

In death the Balkan states show their sovereigns with bouquets; in life with bombs.

President Coolidge worms his way into the Izak Walton League.

Gov. Fuller's Sacco-Vanzetti advisers have been a mighty long time making up their minds on a point about which the whole world, except the judge who sentenced them, has been in unanimous agreement for months.

A venerable landmark is about to pass into oblivion, along with all that physically remains of the historic Newspaper Row of a past generation, as the purchase is announced of the Heurich property at the northeast corner of Fourteenth street and the Avenue. Soon another of the improvements which are changing the appearance of our Town will take the place of the old B. & O. building, home in succession of the telegraph office, a host of correspondents, a prominent "men's wear" shop, Warwick's celebrated thirt emporium, and a cigarette and soda shrine. Hail and farewell!

It is understood that Beausay P. McGinnis, custodian of the year without a summer, regards the President's order for a larger army of hands to harvest the West's bumper crops as a personal affront.

Jack Dempsey shows Jack Sharkey what's swat.

Thrilled by the success of his photographs in chap and a two-gallon hat, Chairman Butler arranges to have the President's picture taken while fishing. This ought not to lose many more votes.

A temperature of 90 is reported at Gellivare, far north of the Arctic Circle. Maybe Commander Byrd will find where the year without a summer is hiding on his next trip.

'Tis feared that Mr. Wayne B. Wheeler is cherishing a delusion if he thinks the time will ever come when the wet-drinking, dry-voting South will swap white supremacy for the Eighteenth amendment, and that's what an independent dry Democratic ticket would lead to. Watch your step, Dixie!

Here's hate, and romance, and jealousy, and murder in the fo'castle of an oldtime sailing ship, but it would take Melville to tell the tale.

At the most thrilling moment of the fight the aurora borealis butts in and interferes with radio and telegraphic communications. Our new commission should adopt a resolution at once prohibiting this.

Our Hawaiian fliers get what's coming to 'em, and the next time they hop off for Manila they'll drop a postal card for Honolulu.

Speaking of aviation, it is reported that Grover Bergdoll is going to fly to America. We, he knows the way—he once flew to Germany, and when he comes back the chief of police will form the reception committee.

Three heroes of the civil war lap up a famous bottle of Burgundy without waiting for two of them to lose all taste for good booze. It was worth going through the battle of Bull Run to get a drink like that, the only genuine pre-war stuff, unless you count the pre-Nicaraguan war stuff.

KELLOGG DEMANDS COMPLETE PARITY WITH BRITISH NAVY

Cables Geneva Delegate to Maintain Stand Without Yielding.

ENGLAND TO ACCEPT OR CONFERENCE DIES

Senator Moses Asks Public Approval of Secretary's Fight for American Rights.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Complete parity with Great Britain, under any and all circumstances, and no yielding whatever on this score. This is the substance of the latest instructions which Secretary of State Kellogg has cabled to Hugh S. Gibson, head of the American delegation at the Geneva conference to limit naval armaments. The instructions have been dispatched from the State Department very recently and form the American Government's reply to the series of diplomatic maneuvers and counter-maneuvers which the British have been making in their last efforts to bring about a weakening in Mr. Kellogg's position.

Nothing has been made public at the State Department respecting Mr. Kellogg's latest instructions, but information as to their import comes from authoritative sources. Mr. Gibson is told in unmistakable plain language that the United States will not submit to anything but complete parity with Great Britain. He is also given support for his own contentions relative to the British efforts to weaken and complicate the parity issue by intricate juggling of tonnage figures and figures relating to the caliber of guns on cruisers.

The American insistence upon guns of more than 6-inch caliber on small cruisers is reemphasized in view of the fact that the British could speedily arm their merchantmen with 6-inch guns and utilize these swift vessels in time of war. America, on the other hand, has no such merchant fleet that it could arm, and agreement to limit the size of cruiser guns would therefore be playing into the hands of the British and destroying the parity which the United States insists upon.

Conference's Life at Stake. The new Kellogg instructions to Gibson make one thing clear. Great Britain will either accept America's demand for complete parity or the Geneva conference will fail. And if it does fail, the American delegation will make known the real cause of the failure in terms which all who understand plain English will understand.

It appears that the British Admiralty has been counting on a weakening of Mr. Kellogg's position. The idea of the British naval experts, apparently, has been that Mr. Kellogg would not stand up under the pressure which the British diplomats would exert in one form or another. Accordingly a change in Mr. Gibson's position has been announced.

1,400-POUND TURTLE IS SOLD FOR $2,000

Rare Leatherback Caught by Fisherman; 4-Foot Lobster Also Taken.

Beach Haven, N. J., July 21 (A.P.).—Henry Bordisiek, working for the Beach Haven Crest Fisheries, landed a 1,400-pound leatherback sea turtle yesterday. The leatherback is one of the rarest specimens of sea life ever landed here, fishermen said.

It is 8 feet long (10 feet, including fin spread), 3 feet 6 inches thick, 4 feet broad and its head is 18 inches in diameter.

The turtle was caught in a net yesterday. New York city aquarium officials bought the rare specimen, paying $2,000.

New London, Conn., July 21 (A.P.).—The "granddaddy" of all lobsters, a giant measuring over 4 feet from tail to feelers, has been landed by Capt. Nathaniel Culver, of Mystic.

The crusher claw of the crustacean measures 24 inches and the cutting claw 25 inches.

U. S. Ship Fights Fire En Route to Bombay

(Associated Press.)

A fire in hold No. 1 of the steamer Homestead, a Shipping Board vessel, en route from Calcutta to Bombay, was reported to the board's offices yesterday by the Roosevelt Steamship Company of New York. It was said the fire had been extinguished and the ship was in no danger of sinking.

London, July 21 (A.P.).—A Reuter dispatch from Bombay says that a wireless message had been received stating that the American freighter Homestead is sinking off the Malabar Coast as a result of damage caused by a heavy storm.

SEVEN-STORY FALL KILLS DAUGHTER OF RICH MAN

Miss Lillian Jaeger Is Found Dead Outside Hotel; Had Just Had Phone Call

THOUGHT TO BE ACCIDENT

Atlantic City, N. J., July 21 (A.P.).—Whether Miss Lillian Jaeger, 28 years old, daughter of the late Otto Jaeger, wealthy plush manufacturer of New York City, fell accidentally seven stories to her death today or committed suicide had not been determined tonight, though County Physician Soudy was convinced it was an accident. Her body was found this morning outside the President Hotel, where she had an apartment on the seventh floor.

Miss Jaeger, who was a frequent visitor at the hotel, had arrived on July 15. Upon the occasion of one of her visits it was learned that Dr. V. E. Johnson had treated her for a minor ailment.

There was nothing in her possession to indicate suicide by premeditation, police said. A thorough investigation, including an earlier assumption of the police that she may have been pushed from the window.

George Rosendale, attorney for the Jaeger estate, said today that he knew of no reason why Miss Jaeger should have committed suicide. Mr. Rosendale said he had not been able to communicate with Miss Jaeger's mother, who is in Saranac Lake, N. Y., nor had he been able to reach either of her two brothers, who are out of town.

Her father had accumulated a large fortune at the time of his death, six or seven years ago, leaving most of his estate to his wife. The attorney said Miss Jaeger was not wealthy in her own right, but received an ample allowance from her mother.

The young woman, who registered on July 15, returned to the hotel at 4:15 o'clock this morning after passing the night with some friends. She was informed that there had been a telephone call from New York for her during her absence. She was requested to call the New York operator.

Shortly afterwards a nurse attending a patient on the floor below heard a scream and then saw a body fall past the window. She gave the alarm, but by the time John Burns, night clerk, reached Miss Jaeger's where she was lying on the boardwalk she was dead. In her room the telephone receiver was found disconnected and the chair in which she had been sitting overturned.

Divorced, She Asks $100,000 of New Wife

Wheeling, W. Va., July 21 (A.P.).—Mrs. Lucille Kirk, of Cleveland, today entered suit in Federal court here for $100,000 damages against Mrs. Lulu Hamilton Kirk, of Fairmont, W. Va., charging alienation of her husband's affections. The plaintiff is Frank McAnnis Kirk's divorced wife, and the defendant his former stenographer and second wife.

Kirk obtained a divorce, charging abandonment. The plaintiff claims Kirk went to Fairmont to work for a coal company and that when she went to visit him she found he had divorced her and married his stenographer.

Assailant Blames Victim He Slashed

Lynchburg, Va., July 21.—Harry Duff, an employee of the city, is at the Lynchburg Hospital dangerously wounded, and E. J. Parker, a youth, is at liberty under $1,500 bail as the result of a cutting affray early yesterday.

Parker said Duff had been drinking and attacked him first. Duff was slashed across the abdomen and left breast.

Bootlegger Kidnaped Son, Woman Believes

Baltimore, July 21 (A.P.).—Reporting her son, J. Athey Kerner, 22, graduate chemist of Johns Hopkins University, missing today, the mother stated she believed he was being held captive by bootleggers to prepare their goods. Kerner disappeared on July 9. The mother said a bootlegger had taken her son for some weeks to work for him.

EXTRA SESSION NEED TOLD TO PRESIDENT BY SENATOR SMOOT

Visits Rapid City to Again Try to Convert Coolidge.

TELLS OF PROGRAM CALLING FOR ACTION

Deficiency Bill, Flood Relief and Tax Cut in Order Named His Plan.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

(Staff Correspondent of The Post.) Rapid City, S. Dak., July 21.—Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, extra-session proponent, came here unexpectedly today in an effort to impress his view upon the President. The statement of Secretary Hoover that Federal aid is imperative for the flood-stricken sections makes it all the more necessary that an extra session be called, he declared.

While the Utah senator did not suggest a date today, previously he has said that Congress should be convened October 15 or November 1.

It was Senator Smoot who came out of the White House several months ago and announced that there would be an extra session. The following day the President indicated that the senator had spoken a little prematurely and recently he has given the impression that he did not favor one or plan to call one. Majority Leader Tilson, of the House, came out several weeks ago and bolstered up this attitude.

Those who talked with the Commerce Secretary yesterday got the impression that he felt there was a need of an extra session, but, apparently yielding to the President's stand, he thought, at this time anyway, that an extra session was unnecessary in so far as the flood situation is concerned.

Outlines Tax-Cut Plan.

The Utah senator's hurried and unexpected visit here, however, found him unchanged in his views. He made his statement, though, before he had seen the President.

The senator, who is chairman of the Senate finance committee, reiterated his previous statements that tax reduction should be held to $300,000,000 reduction of the corporation taxes, elimination of the nuisance levies and a cut in income levies on incomes between $15,000 and $60,000. Corporation taxes should be cut to 12 per cent, he said.

He also wants the levy on automobiles cut in half, or from 3 to 1½ per cent.

The deficiency bill left over from the last session should be taken up first at the extra session, Mr. Smoot said; flood relief taken up next, and then tax reduction. By tackling this subject in the extra session, he said, it could be passed by March 15.

It is not believed that the President had expected the senator today. The first word the summer White House had of his coming, it is understood, was a telephone call from him at Custer, 16 miles away, saying he had just returned.

STATE ORDER HALTS OIL FIELD DRILLING

Work in Sections of Seminole District in Oklahoma Is Held Up.

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 21 (A.P.).—The State Corporation Commission tonight issued a temporary restraining order prohibiting operators in the greater Seminole area from drilling in oil wells in certain sections of the field. It also prohibited shooting of wells in the Seminole territory.

The temporary order was made returnable before the commission August 5.

The order was in part the proposal of Ray M. Collins, umpire of the Seminole field. However, no action was taken on Collins' suggestion to require that in remote districts of the field production be held to 100 barrels in wells drilled in after the drilling of a key well.

Several oil representatives protested the Collins plan and advocated other plans, including the removal of air pressures from wells in the greater Seminole area.

Ill Witnesses Heard In 37-Year-Old Killing

Gate City, Va., July 21 (A.P.).—The jury in Scott County Circuit Court did an unprecedented thing in this section today when Judge Ezra Carter ordered it taken to Robinette Valley, several miles away, where the testimony of two aged witnesses, too ill to be transported to court, was received in the case of Patton Flannery, charged with aiding and abetting in the slaying, 37 years ago, of Hiram Johnson, a youth, by Dave Flannery, a brother of Patton, while three of the Flannery boys were on a spree.

Hiram Johnson, sr., father of the slain boy, and C. A. Ramsey, a bystander when the lad was wounded by Dave Flannery when he ran from the Flannerys after refusing to give up a silver dollar, testified. Both men are aged. The jury and attorneys returned to court later.

HAWAII FLIER SEES HOP TO PHILIPPINES NOW DRAWING NEAR

Notables Acclaim Army Lieutenants for Flight to Honolulu.

FLYING CROSS GIVEN TRANSPACIFIC PAIR

Maitland and Hegenberger Get Warm Welcome by Their Superior Officers.

Airplane flights to the Philippines will be the next step forward in the conquest of the Pacific by air, Lieut. Albert F. Hegenberger, companion flier with Lieut. Lester J. Maitland in the flight to Hawaii, predicted at a dinner in honor of himself and Lieut. Maitland given by the American Aeronautic Association last night in the Mayflower Hotel.

Lieut. Maitland and Lieut. Hegenberger landed amidst an enthusiastic welcome from the crowd gathered to greet them yesterday at Bolling Field. The conquerors of the Pacific came to the ground escorted by the planes of their comrades.

The strategic value of the flight was stressed by Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff of the Army, who was toastmaster. Maj. Gen. Summerall considered the flight "the most significant accomplishment since the completion of the Panama Canal." The control of the eastern Pacific hinges upon the control of Hawaii, he said. The flight has made the reinforcement of the islands from a point on the mainland a matter of assurance and a few hours, he declared.

Exceeds Atlantic Hop.

Likewise, he said, it has strengthened the control of the Panama Canal, and promoted immeasurably the active destiny of the United States in the Pacific. Maj. Gen. Summerall considered this initial conquest of the Pacific by air, accomplished by two honored aviators, of more significance and importance than the conquest of the Atlantic.

In proof, he cited the old observation by historians and geographers that life moves westward, and has continually moved westward through the ages. The destiny of America, then, he said, is in the West, and in the Pacific more than the Atlantic.

Lieut. Hegenberger, however, prophesied that flights to the Philippines, with Hawaii as a midway point, would be an accomplishment of the "very near future." It was of the opinion also that it would promote flying among the islands, which, he explained, are badly in need of swifter means of transportation, since they now must depend upon slow boat travel.

Small Target Winded.

The fact that he and Lieut. Maitland were able to "shoot at a target" in the middle Pacific with success limited to a scope of four degrees, and hit the mark, he credited to perfection of equipment.

Lieut. Maitland spoke briefly. "We are grateful," he said, "that we were permitted to make the flight, al-

Quantico Flier Risks Life to Save Throng

New York, July 21 (A.P.).—Risking his own life to avert a forced landing in the midst of hundreds of bathers at Great Kills, Staten Island, Lieut. J. D. Swartwout, of the United States Marine Corps, today successfully "jockeyed" his plane, whose motor had stalled at 2,000 feet and crashed in the marshes near Snyder's Inn. Except for a severe shaking up he was virtually unhurt.

The plane, a Curtiss Hawk, turned over in the air, landed on its back and was demolished.

Lieut. Swartwout took off from Quantico, Va., this forenoon in a flight to Miller Field, Mechanics from the National Guard Air Station there will attempt to salvage the plane.

Sweet Riot Charges Dropped at Detroit

Detroit, July 21 (A.P.).—All charges against Dr. Ossian H. Sweet, his wife and eight other negroes in connection with the slaying of Leon Breiner during a race riot staged in front of the Sweet home in September 5, 1925, were nolle prossed today.

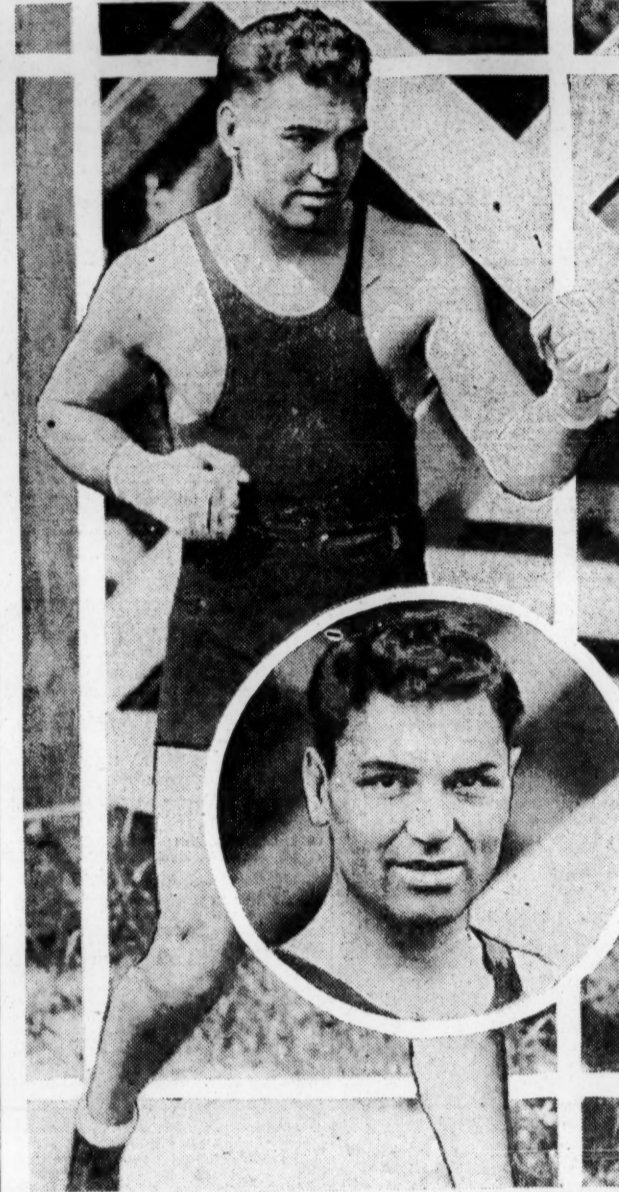

The negroes were brought to trial on charges of homicide and conspiracy to aid Breiner after rioting which resulted from opposition to the Sweet family moving into a section of the city where they were the only negro family. Clarence Darrow, Chicago criminal lawyer, and Arthur Garfield Hayes were engaged as defense counsel. The jury disagreed.

JACK DEMPSEY IS WINNER IN SEVENTH ROUND OF HIS COMEBACK BEFORE 80,000

JACK DEMPSEY.

Henry Miller Service.

"I Knew I'd Win; Sharkey Due Credit," Says Dempsey

Yankee Stadium, New York, July 21 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey is the happiest man in the world tonight.

"I knew I'd win, and I did just as I said I would," he explained. "I'm so happy, tickled, pleased, all up in a heap at once, that I don't know what to do."

"That reception when I entered the ring, a roar that pounded in my ears, lifted me up and made me fight all the harder," Dempsey said. "I can't thank the fans enough for the glorious way they greeted me."

"Give a lot of credit to Sharkey," Jack added, earnestly. "He's a tough, rugged boy, a mighty stiff boxer and one of the cleverest heavyweights I ever faced."

"I hit him a million times. I guess; but he just wouldn't go down until I felt that final right to the stomach bury in his body in the seventh. When the left hook caught him square on the chin I knew he was done. I didn't have to wait for the count."

"Sharkey punched real hard only when he was set, but he never did really hurt me at any time. Of course, he jarred there in the first round, and again once in a while with single punches, but I don't think I was ever in danger of a knockout."

Sharkey Claims Dempsey Fouled Him in 7th Round

Yankee Stadium, New York, July 21 (A.P.).—Jack Sharkey, in his dressing room after his defeat, declared Dempsey dropped his body attack below the waist line in the round that saw the knockout.

"It was all right," he said, "as long as he stuck to banging me around the hips, but when he dropped them lower—"

"Not a scratch on me," he muttered as he peeped into a mirror to don his tie.

His countenance, minus the air of confidence that has been a part of Sharkey, was virtually unmarked and his body bore scant evidence of Dempsey's terrific bombardment.

Dr. William Walker, of the boxing commission, who examined Sharkey's solar plexus, said the boxer would suffer no ill effects. The examination, he added, gave no evidence a foul had been committed nor positive evidence to the contrary.

As Sharkey donned his clothes he said with a flash of the old confident fighter:

"I'm not discouraged."

"I'll be fighting yet when Dempsey's got gray hair."

"It was all in the game," he said in another mood.

"It was just a misfortune. That was all."

To the consolations of friends who remarked he had other interests outside the ring, he replied with emphasis that he didn't "feel that way at all."

"I can come back," he said with a tightening of the jaw.

Temperature of 90 Within Arctic Circle

Gothenburg, Sweden, July 21 (A.P.).—Freak weather conditions have been harassing Sweden, causing considerable damage in the Lapland regions and on the west coast. At Gellivare, far north of the Arctic Circle, temperatures above 90 degrees have been reported. At Stockholm it has been much cooler.

Lightning bolts ruined a giant transformer at the famous Fortus hydro-electric power station, close to the Arctic Circle in Lapland, while at Umea a 16-year-old girl was killed and three soldiers struck unconscious. Heavy rainfalls transformed the City of Gothenburg into a lagoon.

Home Is Dynamited From Speeding Auto

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 21 (A.P.).—Dynamite tossed from a speeding automobile into the front yard of the home of A. L. Gamble, in East Chattanooga, early this morning shattered glass and did other minor damage to the house. No one was injured.

Gamble is a nonunion employee of a stove manufacturer, and he said that the blast grew out of trouble with former employees, members of unions, now out on strike.

Gamble was in bed, as were his wife and eight children.

The house had been attacked before with shotguns and stones, Gamble said.

BEATEN MAN FLOORED WHILE EYES STRAYED

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH (Sports Editor of The Post.)

New York, July 21.—An old man of the prize ring tonight unshaken his knock-out punch again.

After 45 seconds of fighting in the seventh round, Jack Sharkey lay crumpled upon the canvas, unconscious. Jack Dempsey, one open eye glowering upon the helpless form at his feet, had no further need to release the cocked right fist at his side.

There in a ring pitched in the infield of Yankee stadium, where the multitudes to the number of 80,000 had gathered to watch the "come-back" of a fallen champion, Jack Dempsey returned. An old man of the prize ring, despite his 32 years, Jack Dempsey knocked out his man. Sharkey wasn't the champion, but he was one of the two chief contenders, and he is eight years younger than Dempsey.

The knock-out blow was sudden. It was dramatic. It climaxed a relentless body attack by Dempsey and it halted Sharkey's as he was making a winning fight out of the match.

Sharkey learned a lesson. Somewhere in the catechism of the ring there must be the warning, "Don't look at the referee." Dempsey hooked two low right hooks to the body in the seventh round. They were near the foul line but legal. Sharkey winced and with a half turn of his head appealed to Referee Jack O'Sullivan. The look cost him the bout. Dempsey's left hand rose from his waist in that brief flash of time and gathered power as it ascended. The leather-encased flat jolted Sharkey flush on the jaw and Sharkey was eliminated.

Knock-Out Clean.

The knock-out was clean. Dempsey's fist had traversed no more than 12 inches of that resin-filled atmosphere. Sharkey was hit hard and his knees sagged. Then they gave way. He tumbled to Dempsey's feet and much like a rajah's man servant in obeisance Sharkey's face went forward to the floor.

The faithful ten that referee O'Sullivan counted over Jack Sharkey was a mere perfunctory gesture.

Then there were pleasant memories for Dempsey. He stalked across the ring at the final drop of the referee's hand and gently carried Sharkey to his corner as he had carried Willard to his corner, and Carpenter to his corner and Firpo to his corner in the years of his heyday.

There in the ring pitched in the infield of Yankee Stadium, Jack Dempsey came back. He knocked out his man and earned the right to meet Gene Tunney for the world's heavyweight title. Tunney took from him that night in Philadelphia, ten months ago. But the Dempsey of today is not the Dempsey of his championship days—the rushing, snarling, tigerish man that earned him the soubriquet of "The Kid" the fans like to conceive him.

The Dempsey that fought Jack Sharkey tonight is much the same Dempsey who absorbed a terrific 10-round beating by Gene Tunney ten months ago. But Sharkey is not Tunney and therefore he was knocked out.

Old Dempsey Flashes.

Whoever tried to change Dempsey's style from a fighter to a boxer succeeded except during that brief instant after 45 seconds of fighting in the seventh round when

5,000 HEAR BATTLE VIA POST BUILDING RADIO AMPLIFIERS

Huge Crowd Spilled Across Avenue as Jack Dempsey Made Comeback.

EX-CHAMPION'S VICTORY POPULAR WITH THROG

Wild Outburst Comes When Sharkey Is Put Down for the Count.

Five thousand Washingtonians last night assembled in front of the Washington Post Building and listened to the radio description of the Jack Dempsey-Jack Sharkey bout as broadcast from the ring in the Yankee Stadium, New York.

Huge amplifiers rebroadcast the description as received by a radio receiving set installed in The Post Building by the National Electric Supply Co. The amplifiers were a part of the public address system, the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. and carried the minute blow-by-blow story clearly to the crowd.

The crowd completely blocked E street for several hundred feet on either side of The Post Building, and spread out to the car tracks on Pennsylvania avenue. Many stood on the lawn of the District Building opposite, and to all of them the amplifiers carried their vivid story of the come-back of the former champion.

Crowd Pro-Dempsey.

Judging from the applause and shouting, the crowd was "for" Dempsey throughout the battle. Every blow which Dempsey administered to Sharkey brought forth cheers. It was apparent, however, that the former sailor had his friends in the crowd, too, and whenever their man made any progress they were liberal in their shouting.

The description of the knockout in the seventh round was the signal for a wild outburst from the crowd. A few seconds after Dempsey had taken his first step back toward the pinnacle from which he was knocked by Gene Tunney, the crowd had disappeared as if by magic.

The radio story was supplemented by news bulletins from the Associated Press, which were broadcast directly from The Post.

Colored Elks' Chief Called to New York

J. Finley Wilson, grand exalted ruler of colored Elks, was called to New York last night in connection with an order issued by Judge Lynch, of the Federal court, requiring the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks to show cause why an injunction issued by Judge Morschauer against the colored Elks, in 1912, should not be vacated.

The colored grand exalted ruler stated that he understood the proceeding was an amicable one between the white and colored Elks to legalize, if possible, the meeting of the grand lodge of colored Elks in New York next month. If this is not accomplished, the grand lodge will meet in Jersey City, in accordance with a compromise effected last week between rival cities seeking to entertain the convention.

WAR DEPARTMENT HEADS GREET PACIFIC FLIERS

CITY GREET'S HAWAII FLIERS

though there were others in the corps as able to do it as ourselves." He likewise credited his success to perfection of plane and equipment.

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chief of the Army Air Corps, pointed out, however, that the successful flight to Hawaii had been a dream of accomplishment with Lieut. Maitland for six years. He it was who envisioned the flight, who nurtured and cherished the dream, and at last was permitted to execute it successfully.

Tribute by Pershing.

William F. MacCracken, jr., declared that the flight to the Pacific threw a responsibility upon commercial aviation to "follow up" with the establishment of regular air transportation in the trail blazed by the Army aviators.

Gen. John J. Pershing declared that "the recent cross-country flights will do more toward the promotion of aviation than anything accomplished within an equal length of time in the history of aviation." He declared that "you may think your imaginations loose as to the future of aviation just as these men turn their planes loose in the air."

Secretary of Navy William D. Clegg, who was present, declared that the flight was "a spiritual triumph as well as a physical one." He painted eloquently the "dead hands" who, he said, held up the planes through their former failures.

Bolling Field Welcome.

Other speakers were F. Truett Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Aviation; Edward P. Warner, Assistant Secretary of Navy for Aviation; Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, Chief of Naval Air Service; Charles L. Lawrence, president of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation; and Commander Proctor L. Doughter, Col. John T. Axon, chief of chaplains, delivered the invocation.

About 200 persons attended the dinner, which was an enthusiastic reception to the two heroes of the Pacific. A greeting from Commander Richard E. Byrd was read at the dinner.

Gay was the scene of America's official greeting to these latest of its growing flock of eagle sons at Bolling Field. Above there was a blue cloud decked with white clouds and glint of silver and bronze plane wings. Below a field stippled with moving color. Gay dresses of women, white, brown, and gold of uniforms and accompaniment waving flags, decorated grand stand and pavilion—a brown-gold palette of streaming shades to the eyes of the airmen above, a moving bright-hued group to those below.

Coming Glad and Triumphant.

Glad and triumphant was their coming. Only a while ago, these captors of a world's imagination leaped a tremendous arc where a mistake meant extinction in the wastes of water, not to the broad landing of a continent but to a tiny island foothold in a vast ocean. Hurling through night and spectral fog, they found their stepping stone and a world's acclaim. Now, strong with the fruits of victory, they flew back to outstretched arms of jubilation and countrymen.

At a half minute to 5 o'clock, like a giant gliding bird, their plane came out of the West across the path of the descending sun.

"There they are!" was the pean from more than 1,500 throats as the large three-engine transport monoplane, sister ship of the Bird of Paradise, their plane of the California-Hawaii flight, was recognized. Two Army pursuit planes from Selfridge Field, Mich., accompanied them on their triumphal route, as herald and outrider of the air conquerors' approach.

The plane which brought them here has been used by the fliers since they left Chicago Tuesday morning for their visits to Milwaukee and Dayton, and back to the States. It is a replica of the ship in which they made their 2,407-mile flight June 28-29, in 25 hours and 40 minutes.

Band Plays as Plane Lands.

The big olive green transport of the Pacific fliers came straight on, passing over the grand stand and disappearing in the north.

Where are they? What has happened? were the queries that greeted as for a minute they seemed to have disappeared.

Then from above the roofs of Anacostia they were seen coming. A big transport must make a wide circle before landing, and this was why they had been lost. The Bird of Paradise, when it came, the Army Band playing "Stars and Stripes Forever."

Near the river they turned west again and floated east.

Taxing to the flying lines, the fliers were greeted by Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chief of the Army Air Corps, and Brig. Gen. James E. Fechet, assistant chief, as they stepped from their plane.

They took them toward the official pavilion, where Cabinet members and officials of the reception were seated. Half way there they were greeted by Acting Secretary of War Davison and Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff. Davison read the citations for the National Air Medal. The distinguished Flying Cross. The crosses will be awarded to them later on the return of President Coolidge from the West.

When officers and newspaper men reached the plane the fliers were again through the side window removing their brown denim flying togs. Lieut. Hegenberger was first out of the plane, followed by Lieut. Maitland. They saluted smartly and shook hands with their high commands.

"We're proud of you," the air chiefs said as they took them toward the acting Secretary of War and the chief of staff.

There was vigor and spirit to Acting Secretary Davison's air movement as with a proud grin crossing his face he returned the advancing champions' salute. Taking from Gen. Summerall the citations bound with gold and dark blue ribbons, colors of the Air Corps, he read them their contents and presented them with the scrolls.

The citations read as follows: "Lester J. Maitland, first Lieutenant, Air Corps, United States Army. For extraordinary achievement while participating in an aerial flight. As pilot of a United States Army airplane by his mastery skill, courage, endurance and tenacity of purpose, with his navigator, Lieut. Maitland, over the Pacific Ocean, from San Francisco, Calif., to Honolulu, Hawaii, June 28 and 29, 1927, from San Francisco, Calif., to Honolulu, Hawaii, over the Pacific Ocean, with marvelous accuracy of direction and thereby demonstrated conclusively the practicability of long-distance aerial navigation. His masterful exploit is worthy of the greatest praise and has bestowed much credit on the United States Army."

Citation Is Read.

"Albert F. Hegenberger, first Lieutenant, Air Corps, United States Army. For extraordinary achievement while participating in an aerial flight. As assistant pilot and navigator of an United States Army airplane by his mastery skill, courage, endurance and tenacity of purpose, with his pilot, Lieut. Maitland, over the Pacific Ocean, from San Francisco, Calif., to Honolulu, Hawaii, June 28-29, 1927, from San Francisco, Calif., to Honolulu, Hawaii, over the Pacific Ocean, with marvelous accuracy of direction and thereby demonstrated conclusively the practicability of long-distance aerial navigation. His masterful exploit is worthy of the greatest praise and has bestowed much credit on the United States Army."

Plays National Anthem.

"The Star-Spangled Banner" brought the flight to attention after the citations were read. Escorted by the Acting Secretary of War and generals, the victors continued their way to a point fronting the Cabinet pavilion, where Secretary of State Kellogg voiced the official praise of the Nation.

"On behalf of the President and the Nation I compliment and congratulate you on your great feat of making the first nonstop Pacific flight," he said. "It was a wonderful achievement and you have written a new chapter in the history of aviation and its development. Let me add my personal congratulations to you."

Acting Secretary of War Davison, Secretary of the Navy William D. Clegg, Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics Warner, Anthony Fokker, maker of the history-making plane, and Charles L. Lawrence, designer of its engines, then added their congratulations. Gen. John J. Pershing, who brought the entire assemblage to the airport when he entered the reception pavilion, said as he wrung the fliers' hands:

"I am very glad to be here to extend my congratulations, and we are proud of your splendid achievement. Your flight was a fine example of the ever-finer results being accomplished in aviation."

"We are grateful for this welcome," was the modest response of the long-distance flying lieutenants as a swarm of men, women, officers and dignitaries bore down on them to shake hands. Mrs. Maitland joined her husband at the reviewing stand.

Moffett, Greets Fliers.

Among those greeting the airmen were Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, chief of naval aeronautics, and C. F. Dodd, representing the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce.

A thrilling aerial circus preceded the arrival of Lieut. Maitland and Hegenberger. Following a concert by the Army Band at 4:30 o'clock, Army, Navy and Marine Corps airmen from Bolling Field, and from Selfridge Field, Mich., through a marvelous program of flying, taxied to the field, and then, flying upside down and executing a diversity of aerial formations.

Parachute jumping, in which Privates Mike Kelly and Emil Rastow, of the airmen from Bolling Field, leaped from a transport plane piloted by Lieut. Maitland, to a height of 1,500 feet, added to the excitement. They came hurtling down through space at a bullet's pace until the folds of their parachute opened and floated them to safe landings.

Nine planes participated in the exhibition, the first flight of three army and three navy observation planes commanded by Capt. G. Mulzer, and including Lieuts. J. H. Price and E. R. Quesada, flying at a height of 2,000 feet; a second, commanded by Capt. Robert Oldys, Capt. Ralph H. Wooten, Bolling Field, and Lieut. William G. Tomlinson, Anacostia, in pursuit planes, at 1,500 feet; a third, of Marine Corps aviators, in pursuit planes, commanded by Capt. Francis P. Mulcahy and Lieut. Horace

BIRGER'S CASE WITHOUT EVIDENCE AT HEARING

Newman and Hyland Likewise Refuse to Give Testimony; Decision Is Surprise.

HANGING OF THE THREE IS DEMANDED BY STATE

Jury Likely to Get Fate of the Alleged Slayers of Mayor by Tomorrow.

Benton, Ill., July 21 (A.P.).—Sitting mutely after refusing to testify in their own defense, Charles Birger, known as "Machine Gun Charlie," Art Newman and Ray Hyland late today heard the State demand the death penalty for each in their trial for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City.

Neely I. Glenn, assistant State's attorney, opened the closing arguments to the jury with a detailed story of the murder. He said that the three men who conspired to kill are equally guilty with the man who pulls the trigger, Glenn asserted this case warranted "the extreme penalty."

"Newman was Birger's aid and Hyland his henchman," Glenn said. "Birger is 44 years old, Newman is 38 and Hyland is 37. The three men were shown these men picked Harry Thompson, 19, and Elmo Thomasson, 17, to kill Joe Adams. Think of it! These men sent orphan boys to do a murder."

Gang Leader Stares at Books.

The gang leader, his jauntiness gone, stared at the law books and only occasionally raised his eyes to glance at his wife and children as Glenn painted him as a ruthless killer.

The defense for Birger, Newman and Hyland rested today without presenting any evidence.

This move came as a big surprise after Judge Charles Miller had overruled a motion for a continuance and new trial for Birger, which he sought on the ground that Newman had made damaging admissions implicating Birger in the alleged conspiracy.

No Evidence "at This Time."

The four lawyers for Birger went into conference, after which Serial Thompson, one of them, arose and said:

"The defendant, Birger, will offer no evidence in chief at this time, but reserves the right to offer evidence in rebuttal after the codefendants have testified."

H. B. Dial, attorney for Hyland, made a similar announcement in behalf of his client.

W. F. Dillon, Newman's attorney, then made the surprising statement that Newman, who had previously declared he would take the stand and testify, at present no evidence in his own behalf.

Attorney Charles Karch told reporters that Birger had changed his mind about testifying. He said that Birger had thrown into the air by the gang leader's sudden change of plan.

Case to Jury Tomorrow.

Judge Miller said this afternoon and tomorrow would be given over to arguments, the defense opening, and the State making its case. He predicted the case would go to the jury Saturday.

Newman said his reason for not testifying in his own behalf, as he had intended, was that Birger had threatened to take the stand first and blame the shooting of Adams on Newman, if the latter testified.

Newman said Birger declared he would produce five witnesses to prove the "gang chief" was not at "Shady Rest," his home, when the night before the slaying, when the State alleges the murder was planned and ordered.

Birger's former lieutenant said he was given the alternative of either trying to testify against the five witnesses and Birger himself or remaining off the witness stand and letting his counsel make a common plea with the other defendants.

That the defense had reached an impasse was evident this morning when Judge Miller declared the motion for a continuance and dismissal of the jury.

"One of Birger's lawyers, upon being asked when he would begin calling witnesses for the gang leader, said: 'If you can find any witnesses for us we surely would be glad to use them.'"

He said the defense case, after overruling of the motion, was going "like a corpse on its way to the graveyard."

Newman Outlined Story.

Newman had outlined to newspaper reporters the story which he said he intended to tell on the witness stand.

He said Birger had been in the Shelton gangsters, who had shot at me and swore to kill me," he said.

"I was present at Shady Rest (Birger's home) when Charlie Birger on Saturday night (December 11) told the Thomasson boys to kill Joe Adams. 'I drew them aside and asked them 'Did you ever kill a man?' They said 'No, Art; why?' I said in an undertone, because Birger was standing near, 'If you take a fool's advice you won't start now.'"

"Clarence Rhone and Harry Thompson lied about me when they took the stand," Birger had been believed wrongly that set fire to Shady Rest and burned his brother Elmo alive.

"When I get before the jury I will tell the just what happened. I was there when the plot was laid by Birger. He wanted to use my car. I told him, 'My car is not going into Franklin County.'"

"He then said that Connie Ritter and I would have to see the boys started and that we would have to meet them afterwards and take them to Dowell. I demurred, but Birger insisted and I knew it was my life if I did not do that much."

Flogging Witness In Inquiry Missing

Birmingham, Ala., July 21 (A.P.).—Relatives of Oliver Tidd, one of the witnesses in the grand jury investigation of the flogging of Jeff Calloway, today reported he has been missing since he left for Okemuch Saturday and had requested police aid in locating him.

A brother of Tidd said today he feared "foul play" had befallen his brother, who during the flogging hearing at Okemuch was kept under guard because of alleged threats against witnesses.

OFFICIALS REBUKED FOR 'INDIFFERENCE' TO WAR VETERANS

Legion Officer Declares They Should Get Consideration by Government.

CONVENTION UNDER WAY WITH HARMONY KEYNOTE

Kenyon and Miller Nominated for Post of Department Commander.

Government officials in Washington were rebuked for their "indifference" to World War veterans in an address last night by Past Commander Paul J. McGahan at the opening session of the annual convention of the local department of the American Legion in the auditorium of the Interior Department Building.

"There is considerable indifference to the veteran by official Washington," said McGahan, "and every effort should be made to impress upon the officials that the veterans are for and of Washington and must be considered and their services availed of."

The opening session was extremely harmonious. After the nominations for various offices had been made, it was found that there would be a contest for only one—the office of department commander.

J. Miller Kenyon, an attorney, of the Augustus P. Gardner Post, and Harvey L. Miller, a magazine editor, of the Vincent B. Costello Post, were the only nominees for department commander. Kenyon is a former colonel in the Army, and Miller is a former lieutenant in the Navy.

Nominated for Office.

Kenyon was nominated by J. O. C. Roberts Post, the Stuart, Walcott Post, and Miller was nominated by Maj. L. E. Atkins, of the Costello Post.

J. Thad Baker, of the Sgt. Jasper Post, was nominated for senior vice commander; William Morrell, of Lincoln Post, was nominated for second vice commander; and Miss J. Beatrice Bowman, of the June Delano Post, was nominated for third vice commander.

The following were nominated as delegates to the Paris convention in September:

Thomas J. Frailey, of the Sgt. Jasper Post; William Mitchell, of the Costello Post; Miss Mary Louise Costello Post; Miss Margaret D. Woodzell, of the Delano Post; Floyd W. Wooley, of the Walcott Post; Howard E. Plisk, of the George Washington Post, and Miss Esther V. Hall, of the Jacob Jones Post.

Posts Choose Alternates.

Alternates nominated were: Stephen B. Miller, of the James Reese Europe Post; Walter M. Walsh, of the Beuchamp Post; Robert M. Zacharias and James F. Pierce, of the Cooley-McCullough Post; Malcolm Coles and Richard Seelye Jones, of the National Press Club Post, and Thomas Edward Jones, of the James E. Walker Post.

Seek 1928 Convention.

It would cost Washington between $75,000 and $100,000 to have the American Legion hold its 1928 national convention in this city, the convention committee reported. It is proposed to bring the legion here in that year as a part of the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

The delegates last night voted to invite the legion to come here in 1928 and decided to appoint a committee to arrange for the big event. At the same time they voted to make a determined drive to increase the membership of the local legion, this being regarded as necessary if the national convention is to come here.

Among resolutions adopted last night was one proposing a survey of the local department of the legion with a view to a reorganization, and one urging a drive on all railroads for service men. Among the resolutions that went over until tonight was one urging abolition of the United States bureau of efficiency and one suggesting that war debts not be discussed at the Paris convention.

A resolution was presented asking that young men who attend the citizens' military training camps be appointed to the Military Academy at West Point. It suggested that President Coolidge make the appointments after Evans Unit. A course was presented by the corps area commander and the Secretary of War.

Department Commander Amos A. Pries declared in his annual report that the past year has been one of "distinctive achievement." He predicted that the controversy in the legion auxiliary would be settled this fall.

Newly Sworn Policeman Captures Youth Said to Have Robbed Gas Station.

Following a chase through the downtown section yesterday afternoon, George Franklin, 19 years old, colored, who gave his address as the Grove Hotel, was arrested by Policeman A. S. Douglas, of the First Precinct, and charged with robbery of a gas station at Twelfth and E streets northwest. Douglas was sworn in as a policeman Saturday.

According to police, Franklin went into the gas station office and took $3 from the cash register. He ran up E street to Thirteenth with William J. Owens, the station manager in pursuit. Hearing Owens shout he turned back. The latter jumped on him and ran after him. He sent him as far as the alley next to The Washington Post, where he jumped from the auto as it was halted by traffic, and ran into the alley. The policeman captured him in the alley.

Kidnapers After Him, Says Grover Bergdoll

(Special Cable Dispatch.) Berlin, July 21.—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, who is preparing to fly to America and who is in deep negotiations with German airplane companies for this purpose, said today that he had word from America of a new attempt to kidnap him. He sent the names of men who are coming to Germany supposedly to negotiate with him for the sale of an American airplane, but, according to him, in reality to seize him.

"But I won't allow them to interfere in any way with my plans to fly to America," he said. Nevertheless Bergdoll is in strict seclusion.

GIBSON ISLAND

In Chesapeake Bay at the Mouth of the Magothy

An easy motor run of an hour and a half from Washington, over uncrowded, improved roads.

High, rolling land, protected from undesirable surroundings by miles of salt water. A unique development, with higher standards than any other on the Atlantic coast.

$2,700,000 have already been invested in Gibson Island by the Company, the Gibson Island Club and the families who own homes on the island. The Company alone has spent more than $1,250,000 in providing Hard macadam roads. Club house and club cottages. Bathing and boat houses. Electric light system. Fire department.

Gibson Island makes a national appeal. One Hundred and Seventeen large building sites have been sold to professional and business people from seven States. Forty attractive homes have already been built and are now occupied.

The development was laid out by Frederick Law Olmsted, one of the great landscape architects of the world, so that its unique natural beauty has not been marred. Great care is taken in the selection of families to whom lots are sold, and the building restrictions in force are a guarantee against ugly or inharmonious improvements.

Little Children Left In Street by Mother

Chicago, July 21 (By A. P.).—When a man and a woman in a taxicab pushed two children, one 4 years old and the other 3, out of the vehicle, the house before which they stood was that of their father, who was divorced from their mother. They were taken to the juvenile detention home, where the father found them. An anonymous telephone call informed him of their being there.

"Now we've seen the last of you," bystanders heard the taxicab occupants say as the youngsters were ejected. The children did not know their names.

The father said his former wife, their mother, had remarried and her new husband did not want the chil-

Wife Asks Divorce Be Given to Husband

Chicago, July 21 (A. P.).—Probably unique among many divorce cases, a decree was granted yesterday to a man who is missing, his wife appearing before the court and asking that he be given the divorce on charges he brought against her.

The woman, Mrs. Patricia Mitchell, had first won a decree on a cross complaint, but it had been reversed by the appellate court which ruled the husband should have been granted the divorce. Then the husband disappeared and the wife, wishing to be married again, went to court with her unusual plea.

Air Mail Bids Asked For Western Routes

Bids for a contract air mail service between Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Chicago, by which a full business day would be saved to Cincinnati business men, on their mail to the Middle and Far West, were invited yesterday by Acting Postmaster General John H. Bartlett. They will be opened August 18.

The proposed route would connect with the transcontinental air mail and other contract routes at Chicago, and would be operated on a daily basis. The distance is 270 miles, and would be covered in three hours.

Will Rogers Says Kings Are Better If Inducted Young

Special to The Washington Post.

Beverly Hills, Calif., July 21.—When they crowned the little King Michael yesterday over in Roumania, the only words he uttered were, "Come on, mamma, let's go home; I am hungry."

Those are the true words ever uttered by a king, for the best thing they do is eat. However, I saw the movies of the last inauguration and Mr. Coolidge looked so bored it looked like he said, "I wish they would hurry up and get done here, Grace; I am getting hungry."

Lots of people over here think the Roumanian king is too young. You can't get 'em too young; the younger they are, the better kings they make.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

STYLING SELF KING, CAROL ASKS PERMIT TO GO TO FUNERAL

Paris, July 21 (A. P.).—The fact former Crown Prince Carol of Roumania expressed the desire to attend his father's funeral, in a message to the royal family at Bucharest, and has not yet received a reply was, it is known in a statement given out in his behalf tonight by a high personage closely connected with him. In this statement the former crown prince is referred to as "King Carol of Roumania."

The statement says:

"King Carol of Roumania, deeply affected by the death of his father and moved by feelings of devotion toward the late sovereign, regrets for the moment he is unable to make any communication to the press. He thus finds himself prevented from formulating a declaration which the new situation calls for. Yesterday morning he expressed telegraphically to the members of the Roumanian royal family a desire to attend his father's funeral. Up to the present he has received no answer."

Secluded in his villa at Neully, a suburb of Paris, Prince Carol of Roumania is deeply dejected, members of his household assert.

His servants described him as "just letting himself live." His own statement sent to the newspaper men waiting outside the villa is said to reflect the state of mind of the former heir to the Roumanian throne.

"Broken by sorrow," the statement read, "I could not receive the press. I consider that in these moments the press ought to respect the sorrow of a son who feels so deeply the personal loss of a father he loved and respected and the loss to the country that he always loved so much."

Detectives are again patrolling the precincts of Carol's home; they scrutinize every visitor and demand his business.

A special service will be held in the Roumanian Church in Paris at 11 o'clock Sunday morning for the deceased and at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon for the Roumanian colony.

"Carol is certain to attend both services," one of his intimate friends said. "If he is forbidden to see his father at Bucharest and attend his funeral, there is no reason why he should not be able to worship in his memory in France."

When the chief of the detectives watching over the destinies of the former Roumanian heir was informed of this decision he remarked firmly: "Carol will be well looked after; no harm will come to him during the services."

TALE OF JEALOUSY, INTRIGUE AND DEATH ON MYSTERY CRAFT

Cook Is Said to Have Killed Wife Because She Had Affair With Sailor.

NEW CAPTAIN AND MATE INVOLVED IN QUARRELS

Latter Dies While at Sea; Substitute Cook Then Oddly Disabled.

New York, July 21 (A. P.).—The tale of the eight-months voyage of the schooner Kingsway to the African gold coast, as unraveled today from two prisoners taken off at quarantine because of the murder on board of a woman, is a tale of violence, jealousy and intrigue.

The prisoners are Earl Battice, 24, Porto Rican cook of Guilford, Miss., who is believed to have murdered his wife and Earl Baka, donkey engine man, whose attentions to the woman are believed to have led to her death. Assistant United States Attorneys Minter and Simpson, who boarded the ship at quarantine last night and took off the two prisoners, questioned them at length today as to the Kingsway's turbulent voyage.

Says Wife Boasted.

The cook's wife boasted to her husband of her liaison with Baka, said Mr. Minter, and he at first seemed indifferent, even to aiding her in her affair. After ten days of brooding, however, Battice sought the captain's revolver, and failing to find it, borrowed a razor. With this weapon, a long curious affair, the jealous cook slashed his wife's throat, Mr. Minter stated.

Her wound was strapped up with adhesive tape by the captain and she lived six days.

The troubles of the voyage began when the Battice docked and yesterday when the captain became ill on her way out and had to be taken off at Pensacola, Fla., where he was replaced by Capt. F. E. Laury. The mate, Fred Mortimer, was indignant, thinking he should have been made captain, according to the story as pieced together by the attorney, and at once began giving orders conflicting with those of Laury. The friction between the captain and mate lasted until the mate died on the return voyage.

New Cook Is Injured.

After the murder, Capt. Laury said he put Battice in irons, but he mysteriously escaped and came on deck. In Africa, he took on another cook, Codgo, a native. There was trouble in the galley at once, as the crew pronounced Codgo's cooking "terrible."

Codgo became injured in some unexpected manner, and Battice again was placed in charge of the galley.

Secluded in his villa at Neully, a suburb of Paris, Prince Carol of Roumania is deeply dejected, members of his household assert.

His servants described him as "just letting himself live." His own statement sent to the newspaper men waiting outside the villa is said to reflect the state of mind of the former heir to the Roumanian throne.

"Broken by sorrow," the statement read, "I could not receive the press. I consider that in these moments the press ought to respect the sorrow of a son who feels so deeply the personal loss of a father he loved and respected and the loss to the country that he always loved so much."

Detectives are again patrolling the precincts of Carol's home; they scrutinize every visitor and demand his business.

A special service will be held in the Roumanian Church in Paris at 11 o'clock Sunday morning for the deceased and at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon for the Roumanian colony.

"Carol is certain to attend both services," one of his intimate friends said. "If he is forbidden to see his father at Bucharest and attend his funeral, there is no reason why he should not be able to worship in his memory in France."

When the chief of the detectives watching over the destinies of the former Roumanian heir was informed of this decision he remarked firmly: "Carol will be well looked after; no harm will come to him during the services."

Gang Whose Den Was Shelled by British Fliers Renew Attacks in China.

PASSENGERS CAPTURED

Hong Kong, July 21 (A. P.).—Pirates still operate at Bias Bay despite the destructive British raid on that notorious pirate stronghold, near Hong Kong, last March.

The Norwegian steamer Solviken, which left Hong Kong Tuesday for Saigon, was attacked by pirates. Two of its officers were wounded and the ship was steered to Bias Bay where it was looted of $200,000 worth of gold bars and the belongings of the passengers. The sea raiders also carried off the Solviken's Chinese steward, six Chinese passengers and a boy.

"You can tell them to send their airplanes, but they won't find us," growled the pirate leaders in fluent English to the chief officer of the plundered steamer as the pirates went over the side into the ship's boats, which they also stole.

The pirates employed the customary method for looting ships in this region. They boarded the ship by means of all the white officers of the Solviken if his orders to steer the ship to Bias Bay were not obeyed.

A British punitive expedition inflicted much damage at Bias Bay during March.

Following various depredations by the pirates, a naval expedition commanded by Rear Admiral Boyle proceeded to Bias Bay from Shanghai. Landing parties, using fire and explosives, demolished about 100 houses and sank a number of junk and sampans. The villagers fled when the British forces appeared.

Los Angeles, July 21 (A. P.).—Archduke Leopold, of Austria, who spent all his money shortly after his arrival in this country for a tour, now is a full-fledged motion picture extra.

The Austrian nobleman went to work before a camera here yesterday, reinforced by his secretary, to earn enough to return to Europe where he hopes to avenge the "insult" which he insists Count Szechenyi, Austrian minister to the United States, flung at him in his determination to follow him to fight the duel. But it is a case, according to his secretary, Alfred Neuhardt, of the spirit being willing, even eager, but the pocketbook weakly.

Beginning his day at 8 o'clock in the morning the noble actor rehearsed and toiled and perspired before the camera all day, his secretary stood at the ready to register the correct salute. "Excuse, please," he apologized, "I have never salute. In my country everybody they salute me, but I do not salute."

Minneapolis, July 21 (A. P.).—The trial of James F. Monahan, alias "Boston Billy" Williams, charged with participating in the $90,000 jewel robbery at the home of Jess L. Monahan broke the hunger strike begun last night and took the food that was offered him today. He kicked and cursed his keepers and refused to touch the food they brought him last night, when he was placed in solitary confinement as the result of finding a spoon filed in the shape of a key in his cell.

Will Rogers Says Kings Are Better If Inducted Young

Special to The Washington Post.

Beverly Hills, Calif., July 21.—When they crowned the little King Michael yesterday over in Roumania, the only words he uttered were, "Come on, mamma, let's go home; I am hungry."

Those are the true words ever uttered by a king, for the best thing they do is eat. However, I saw the movies of the last inauguration and Mr. Coolidge looked so bored it looked like he said, "I wish they would hurry up and get done here, Grace; I am getting hungry."

Lots of people over here think the Roumanian king is too young. You can't get 'em too young; the younger they are, the better kings they make.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

PAN AMERICA LABOR ASKS U. S. MARINES LEAVE NICARAGUA

Softened Resolution Adopted by Federation Requests Early Action.

CARRIES NO REFERENCE TO SANDINO ENCOUNTER

Convention Refuses to Expunge Message Sent by President of Cuba.

The Pan-American Federation of Labor adopted yesterday a resolution asking for the withdrawal of American marines from Nicaragua, but it was not the same resolution that was presented three days ago by the Nicaraguan delegation. As a matter of fact, it was an entirely new resolution, which, while emphatic enough, was devoid of the harsh language which appeared in the original resolution.

The convention also adopted a resolution advocating a pardon for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, who are facing execution in Massachusetts.

The original Nicaraguan resolution was offered by Salomon de la Selva, one of the Nicaraguan delegates, on the day the news was received of the battle between American marines and the followers of Gen. Sandino, who has been described as a "bandit" by the State Department.

Harsh Language Deleted.

De la Selva's resolution pictured vultures hovering over the Nicaraguan head, and called upon President Coolidge to withdraw the Marines from his homeland.

The resolution passed yesterday did not touch on the battle between the Marines and Sandino's forces, and instead of being addressed to President Coolidge, it was addressed to the Government of the United States.

The resolution expressed "regret for the events having occurred recently in Nicaragua," and addressed a "respectful, but emphatic petition" to immediately withdraw the United States forces on land, sea and in the air in Nicaragua, and to terminate its intervention in the interest of this nation, so that the people of Nicaragua may fully and freely work out their own problems.

A controversy arose at the morning session when a motion was made to strike from the record a message of good will sent to the meeting by President Machado of Cuba.

Sees Uterior Motive.

Ricardo A. Martinez, of Venezuela, made a motion that the message not be placed on the record "in view of the oppression, murder and crimes that have been a part of Machado's administration." If the cablegram was accepted, he declared, there would be strong probabilities that the Cuban President would take advantage of it and pose as a protector of the working classes.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor and presiding officer of the convention, ruled that President Machado's message would become a part of the proceedings and should be placed on the record.

The resolution dealing with the Sacco-Vanzetti case called upon Gov. Fuller of Massachusetts to "exercise his power of clemency and authority of pardoning these men, so that the ends of justice be fully served."

Two resolutions bearing on Panama were passed, one protesting against the exclusion of Panamanian laborers from the work in the Canal Zone and the other urging the adoption of a treaty which would guarantee a fair chance for the merchants and the industries of Panama.

The convention also adopted a resolution introduced by Juan J. Revilla, of Cuba, which declared that American corporations should employ native workmen in the countries where they have their developments.

President Green assailed communists in a speech at the morning session. He declared that the communists are seeking to destroy the trade union movement as it is represented by the Pan-American Federation of Labor. The communists, he said, are weak numerically, but "strong vocally."

Dinner for Delegates.

The delegates were entertained at a dinner at the Willard Hotel last night. President Green presided and introduced Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, and Luis N. Morones, Mexican secretary of commerce and labor and vice president of the Pan-American Federation of Labor, who spoke.

Secretary Morrison told the delegates that they could not expect the comparatively new labor organizations in their countries to make such strides at present as the American Federation, which has been in existence for 25 years and promised them the support of his federation, stating "every union established in any part of the world strengthens the American labor movement."

Secretary Morones lauded the efforts of the American Federation in behalf of the smaller unions of the Pan-American countries and declared that organization should be the weapon with which workers should combat the tyrants of business. The two speeches were translated into English and Spanish by interpreters.

U. S. To Reject All Fetters In Building Small Cruisers

Insistence on Right Provides Main Question Before the British Cabinet Today—Deliberations at Geneva Wait on London's Views.

Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—The United States will stand pat in her insistence on the liberty to build any kind of secondary cruisers she desires and mount on them those types of guns best suited to American naval needs, according to information available in Geneva tonight.

The British have been vigorously advocating the limitation of secondary cruisers to 6,000 tons displacement with a maximum gun caliber of 8 inches.

This difference of opinion continues to triplicate the danger problem of the tripartite naval conference and its doubtless the main question on which the British cabinet will deliberate tomorrow in London.

Members of the three naval conference delegations were waiting impatiently today for word from London which might give an inkling of the conversations expected to take place between W. Bridgeman, first lord of the British admiralty, and Viscount Cecil, when they met Premier Baldwin and other members of the British cabinet.

dictated by the British, day by day and hour by hour. There has been a prevalent belief at Geneva that if tonnage figures and gun-caliber figures could be juggled and juggled long enough the American delegation sooner or later would accept something which looked like parity, but which still assured to British practical dominance on the seas.

Some of the foreign diplomats at Geneva have had reports reaching them that Secretary Kellogg would change his mind and accept a compromise or a British proposal of parity with reservations. This assumption was based chiefly, it appears, on the fact that Mr. Kellogg, before he entered the conference, had been changed his position with respect to foreign policies which came before him when he was a United States senator.

Kellogg Stands Firm.

But there is no sign of any wavering on the part of Secretary Kellogg in connection with the regulations for American naval defense which are wrapped up in the Geneva Conference. Incidentally, there has been no weakening in the United States Government's Mexican or Nicaraguan policies, nor in the State Department's policy in regard to the Cuban revolution. Kellogg's position is unshakable.

Senator Moore, who ranks third on the Republican membership of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, strongly indorses Secretary of State Kellogg's position. In a statement issued today, he said:

"The 1923 agreement, creating the commission, called for complete disposal of all claims presented by the end of August, 1924. A total of 8,257 claims, 2,469 by the United States, have been filed up to the present, but as only 51 claims, involving upward of $2,000,000, have been awarded, the extension of the commission's life was regarded as imperative.

A resolution authorizing President Coolidge to enter into negotiations with Mexico to this end was approved at the last session of Congress. The commission is understood to be along lines similar to the one in existence.

United States Lines Shows First Profit

(Associated Press.)

For the first time since it began operating a Government passenger service in the North Atlantic, the United States Lines showed a net profit of $371,000 for the fiscal year ended June 30. President Dalton of the Merchant Fleet Corporation announced yesterday this profit, compared with a loss of $880,000 for the previous year.

The big increase in profits, he said, helped to offset a decrease in passenger revenues due to the loss of the services of the steamship American, which was sunk as a result of a fire. More than $1,000,000 was spent for betterments and repairs of the line's ships.

New York, July 21 (A.P.).—The New York police, accused at a public hearing in April last of having accepted $100,000 "hands off" money from the left wing side of a seventeen-weeks' labor strike, were today officially exonerated by Magistrate Corrigan.

The magistrate, who conducted the hearings in the mayor's investigation into the charges, said in his decision that examination of the testimony given by all concerned did not support the charges and that the police department must accordingly be given a "clean bill of health."

At the hearings last spring, instituted after American Federation of Labor officials had announced that the left wing leaders had spent large sums in bribery, the charges were denied by both left wing leaders and the police. The left wing leaders counter-charged with the statements that the charges had been made by the American Federation of Labor officials to discredit the left wing group and take away the leadership in the strike.

COOLIDGE OPPOSES RISKS FOR EXTRA HARVEST AID

Tells Labor Department Many Workers Will Be Needed to Cope With Crop.

MACHINERY EFFECT FELT

(Associated Press.)

President Coolidge has written Secretary Davis of the Labor Department asking that an increased effort be made to supply the seasonal demand for harvest labor in the West.

While Acting Secretary Husband, of the department, declined to make public the executive communication, it was said that Mr. Coolidge foresaw the possibility of exceptionally large crops and felt that the Labor Department, which controls the Government employment service, should take every precaution of preventing a possible shortage of harvest labor.

Husband said he had communicated with George E. Tucker, of the employment service at Kansas City, and labor agents had been urged to redouble efforts to care for the situation.

In preliminary studies made some time ago by the employment service for its harvest labor campaign in the Western grain states it was found that in the more southerly grain-growing States, particularly in Kansas, the farming community has extensively increased its harvesting machine equipment.

The immediate effect of this has been to reduce the anticipated requirements for harvest labor.

In Kansas, where the employment service ordinarily figured it necessary to provide 25,000 workers from outside the State, the use of harvesting machines combined harvester-threshers has this year reduced the anticipated number of outside workers required to about 18,000.

In the course of five years' experience, the employment service has been able to find the harvesters and the Southern territory, and then direct its movement North as the crops ripen.

got in and would be right out. After about two hours he had not appeared, inquiries were made and he was learned that he had had some difficulty in getting transportation, but had finally started on a touring bus.

The President, in the meantime, in Rapid City with Secretary Hoover, shortened his stay and returned to the lodge.

Mr. Hoover left this afternoon for California, but before leaving he told newspaper men that the country's present business condition is one of great stability. There have been some recessions, he said, but no depression.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, who has just returned from a trip abroad, believes that economic conditions in Great Britain will cause the British government to accept parity with the United States and insure an agreement at Geneva.

Miss Lena Phillips AGAIN TO HEAD CLUBS

Oakland, Calif., July 21 (A.P.).—Miss Lena Phillips, of New York City, has been renominated for president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs here today.

Mrs. Job Hedges, of New York, made the first actual move toward internationalizing the proposed economic emancipation of women when she introduced a resolution recommending the founding of business and professional women's clubs all over the world.

Cornelia F. Adair, of Richmond, Va., brought up the child labor situation, and declared that women in industry need laws protecting them.

What we need is a Federal law to prevent exploitation of children. As it stands now Pennsylvania children are being taken to New Jersey to work in factories and New Jersey can do nothing about it.

Resolutions indorsing the Curtis-Reid bill, favoring a Federal department of education, and the Hughes bill, placing home economics training on an equal basis with trade and agriculture, were expected to be acted upon by the delegates tomorrow.

New Dominion Near For British Empire

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

London, July 21.—A new British dominion is likely to be added to the British Empire before long as the result of discussions going on recently in London during the visit of Sir Edward Greig, governor of Kenya colony.

The plan is to unite colonies of Uganda, Tanganyika, Rhodesia, Nyazsal and Kenya into a self-governing federation on the African or Canadian plan.

Canada has been delaying its consent on the ground that the agreement of the Imperial conference should be obtained before erecting a new dominion with equal powers with the existing dominions, but this objection was overcome by correspondence direct with the various dominions. India, however, still objects on the ground of the treatment of the Indians in these African colonies, and is insisting that some provision be inserted in the constitution giving the Indian equal rights with the whites.

ALIMONY CLUB FIGHTS DIVORCE "PROFTEERS"

One Woman Collecting From Five Former Husbands, It Is Held by Officers.

"PAY AND PAY AND PAY"

Chicago, July 21 (A.P.).—A half-hundred of Chicago's alimony rebels, pro-secced victims of laws which they say prescribe that the man shall pay and pay and pay, have organized an alimony club for a fight on gold digging and profiteering in the divorce courts.

Among the founders of the club, which came into being last night, was a woman who said she was working to aid her husband to pay an allowance to his former wife, who was spending it riotously.

Another charter member said the money he was paying his wife was being used to support another man.

The rank and file of the club, a victim who said he had dodged 47 cities to escape alimony payments; one who said his wife dined his coffee with carbolic soap; and another who said he had a man who invented a bullet-proof vest after martial mishaps, and one who had married a bigamist collecting money from five former husbands.

The founders expect the club to become a national organization, with a vision of establishing bureaus for preventing unfair divorces, for effecting reconciliations and for other concomitant duties.

A constitution and by-laws are to be adopted based on the club's expressed purpose: "To create public sentiment, promote legislation and aid in litigation to stop gold-digging, crooked attorneys and framing detective agencies for profiteering in the divorce courts."

The president was given to Dr. Verne P. Cooley, dentist, whose case made him a victim of the divorce courts. The court decided he must continue alimony payments, which he asked discontinued on the grounds that his wife had been guilty of immorality since the decree was signed.

ADVISERS ON SACCO CASE END HEARINGS

Noted Prisoners, in Death Cells, Continue Hunger Strike Begun on Sunday.

Boston, July 21 (A.P.).—The advisory committee, appointed by Gov. Alvan T. Fuller to make an independent investigation of the Sacco-Vanzetti case, concluded its hearings today. Arguments by counsel for the two men under sentence of death for murder and by representatives of the State will be heard beginning next Monday.

The two prisoners continued today their hunger strike at the State prison. Since Sunday morning they have refused to eat. The Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee, four members of which last night sent a letter to the governor protesting against the secret proceedings, has asserted that it was this secrecy which led the two men to undertake the strike.

Death of the prisoners in the electric chair, originally set for the week of July 10, was postponed when Gov. Fuller granted them respite to August 10, in order to give him time to complete his investigation.

Beirut, Syria, July 21 (A.P.).—Van Lear Black, Baltimore publisher, arrived at Aleppo today on his return from a tour of duty in the Levant. He is expected to return to Baltimore tomorrow, where he will be met by his family.

Powerhouse Is Burned—Incendiarism Suspected. Court Order Restrains Union Men From Assembling in Large Groups.

Columbus, Ohio, July 21 (A.P.).—A court restraining order, and an order for machine guns and ammunition, figured today in the first step of Ohio operators to carry out their threat to run the mines in the Ohio field with nonunion labor, since no agreement has been reached with the unions on a wage scale.

The executive committee of the Ohio Operators Association will meet at Cleveland tomorrow, presumably for a general consideration of the situation. The court restraining order was made for the purpose of guaranteeing the purpose of the meeting was made.

From Steubenville came reports of officials of the Rose Valley and Goodyear Rubber Co., having advised the mine is to open next Monday, while the Goodyear Mine is scheduled to open August 5.

Rose Valley officials are preparing quarters for about 300 non-union miners they intend to import. They announced they do not intend to employ union miners from company houses, but will move those in houses near the mine property to other company houses in another part of the town.

The restraining order, granted temporarily to the Lohr Collieries Co. of Lohr, named Lee Hall, district president of the United Mine Workers and 83 officials and members of the organization. The order was issued to prevent the order and tonight they had taken their places at the mine property. Tents were erected for them, it being the plan of the union to keep them there continuously.

There has been reported that armed guards will patrol the Lohr properties when operations are started, but this is unsubstantiated and is denied by company officials.

Other developments in the Hocking Valley today included the burning of the powerhouse of the Monday Coal Co., between Logan and Nelsonville, early this morning and the announcement by O. S. Newton, general manager of the Sunday Creek Coal Co., that two of the company mines would be closed shortly and that the company would attempt to employ its own men.

He also asserted that if the company could not operate its mine in the Hocking Valley it would move all portable property to the West Virginia nonunion fields. Plans for such a move already are under way, he said.

The fire at the Monday mine was believed to be of incendiary origin and is being investigated by Athens and Hocking County officials. Loss was estimated at $10,000.

WHEELER REPEATES DRY CANDIDATE PLANS

Denies That League Will Sponsor Aspirant if Parties Are "Right."

REPLIES TO CHURCHMEN

(Associated Press.)

Renewed discussion of the possible attitude of Southern dry toward a wet equal candidate for the general election was given by the general assembly of the league, sent here from his summer home in Michigan, said:

"Wayne B. Wheeler today, referring to his discussion of political possibilities, disclaimed the construction that the Antislavery League would not initiate the nomination of an independent dry presidential candidate, if either dominant political party candidate is right on the prohibition question."

The statement was prompted by the declaration of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., and Dr. Arthur J. Barton, representing the Southern Methodists and Baptists, respectively, that a recent expression by Mr. Wheeler on the subject represented only his own opinion, and not that of the league.

A paragraph in the Wheeler statement referred to said:

"There will be at least one of the national dominant parties which will have a satisfactory candidate for the maintenance and enforcement of the eighteenth amendment. There is a possibility that both will be satisfactory. Then the league keeps hands off."

If Gov. Smith is nominated and the drys in the South would rather vote for an independent dry candidate for President than for a dry Republican, this would give them a chance to register their protest."

Bishop Cannon and Dr. Barton objected to this statement, declaring that while Southern Democrats would never agree to the nomination of a wet candidate, if the Democrats should nominate a wet, "dry Democrats, North as well as South, will do what they determine what course they will follow."

IZAAK WALTON HONOR VOTED TO COOLIDGE

Made South Dakota Division Honorary President to End Worm Dispute.

Chicago, July 21 (A.P.).—President Coolidge has been elected to and has accepted the position of honorary president of the South Dakota division of the Izaak Walton League of America, national headquarters of the organization announced here today.

The action of the Dakota Waltonians is taken as complete approval of the early-season presidential method of taking trout with the worm instead of with the more ethical fly, said the national headquarters announcement.

"The league is devoted to the practice of the highest refinement of fishing and shooting methods."

"The practice of true sportsmanship is not dependent upon any given kind of lure so much as it is upon the sportsman's spirit of fair play in returning small fishes to the water and in taking no more than he requires, leaving the rest for other anglers."

former Judge J. M. Dickinson, national president of the Walton League.

$600,000,000 Subway In Chicago Proposed

Chicago, July 21 (A.P.).—A new plan to provide $600,000,000 worth of subways for Chicago, one of the few large cities of the world without underground tubes, has been announced by Alderman Leonard J. Grossman.

The alderman said that a Chicago financial group with the backing of 131 miles of subway at $2,225,000 a mile, provided a 50-year franchise for operation of the tubes could be obtained from the city. At the end of the 50-year period, Alderman Grossman said, the subways would be turned over to the city without cost. More than $5,000 has been expended by the group in the perfection of plans, he said.

The backers of the project were not named.

WALTHER LEAGUE HOLDS U. S. YOUTH IMMEDIATE

Deplores Tendency to Extravagance and Disrespect of Nation's Laws.

CONVENTION IS CLOSED

St. Louis, July 21 (A.P.)—The thirty-fifth international convention of the Walther League, a Lutheran society, closed today with adoption of a resolution deploring "the tendency of the American youth toward extravagance, immorality and disrespect for the laws of their country."

In urging Lutheran young people to aid in the education of promising young men for the ministry the convention adopted a resolution encouraging the establishment of scholarship funds.

Another resolution paid tribute to the memory of Dr. C. F. W. Walther, of St. Louis, founder of the league, as "the foremost Lutheran theologian in America during the last century." The president was directed to place a wreath upon Dr. Walther's grave.

Selection of the 1928 convention city was left to the executive board. While a vigorous campaign was conducted by Detroit Walther Leaguers to hold the next convention in their city, convention leaders felt other cities should be given an opportunity to extend invitations.

Port Wayne, Ind., also wanted the honor. The Rev. P. G. Prokopy, of Chicago, executive secretary, declared the league's greatest forward movement now was mission work. He read a committee report recommending a larger appropriation and suggesting "greater radio activity to help spread the message of hope."

The Rev. E. Freitag reported the league had contributed $45,450 in the last year for the care of charity patients at the Wheatridge Sanatorium for Tuberculosis, at Denver, Colo. He said 136 of the 146 patients now in the sanatorium were in the more advanced stages of tuberculosis. He urged that patients be sent in the incipient stages.

The Rev. E. Bumbach, hospital secretary, reported the league sold $56,061.81 in Christmas seals last year, and placed next year's goal at $60,000, to be used for charitable purposes.

Closing addresses were given by E. Meese, of Oakland, Calif., recently re-elected as first vice president, and by E. J. Galtwey, of Fort Wayne, Ind., chairman of the executive board.

PROVIDENCE NOISILY GREETED LINDBERGH

Spirit of St. Louis Cavorts Over City as Thousands Cheer Pioneer.

Providence, R. I., July 21 (A.P.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, flying his Spirit of St. Louis, came to Providence, the second city to be visited in his national air tour, today, and was given a noisy welcome. Whistles, bells, automobile horns and even human voices united in providing a bedlam of welcome to America's flying ace.

For fifteen minutes he hovered the Spirit of St. Louis about the skies, dipping low over the heart of the city and then soaring with majestic grace into the sunlight.

After pleasing thousands he took off to the south to Quonset Point, the nearest landing field to the city, where a municipal reception awaited.

The committee was to escort him to Providence, where the city official welcome program was to take place.

LAST-MAN CLUB DRINKS WINE STORED 42 YEARS

Three Veterans Toast Their 31 Departed Civil War Company Comrades.

Sullivan, Minn., July 21 (A.P.)—Bent by the withering advance of time, but bright of eye, three Civil War veterans today faced 31 vacant and pallid chairs, symbolic of departed comrades, and conducted the final meeting of the Last Man's Club.

Remnant of the famous Company B, First Minnesota, the gallant trio feasted alone while Mrs. "Sam" L. Bloomer, widow of the color-bearer of that Civil War company, moved about the table to minister to their needs.

Peter Hall, 89, came from Atwater, Minn., and Charles Lockwood, 85, from Chamberlain, S. Dak., while John S. Laff, 84, had journeyed over from St. Paul, to meet as they had always met, on the anniversary of the battle of Bull Run.

They met for the last time as the organization formed 42 years ago by the Company B veterans, and a bottle of Burgundy, held in sacred trust for those 42 years, was opened and the last toast said to that once-gallant company.

At their first meeting, long years ago, the 34 members had planned that the bottle of wine should stand unopened until the last man—the last survivor of their group to meet as the three met today—should drink alone a toast to his departed comrades.

But this task, they decided last year, was too great a burden for the lone survivor, so they determined to drink today the final toast. After their meeting today citizens of Sullivan joined in a general program in honor of the trio.

WOMAN ASKS GRAY TO ASSUME BLAME

Mrs. Snyder Offers Then to Devote All Her Time to Saving Him.

New York, July 21 (A.P.)—The New York Daily News says that Mrs. Ruth Snyder, frightened by her approaching electrocution, has appealed to her one-time paramour, Henry Judd Gray, to assume full responsibility for the murder of her husband.

"If you will take full responsibility for Albert's death, and exonerate me, I will, when set free, devote all my time and funds in saving you."

This, says the Daily News, is the message the former Queens Village housewife gave one of her keepers at Sing Sing prison to deliver to the former co-sleeper. Whether the message was delivered, the keeper refused to say.

Warden Lewis E. Lawes said he knew nothing about the matter. Both Mrs. Snyder and Gray are occupants of the Sing Sing death house, but their executions are held up pending appeals.

COMPANY HEAD DEFENDS PURCHASING SOVIET OIL

Vacuum Officials to Sell Only Where Russia Is Economic Source.

DENIES WRONG IN STEP

New York, July 21 (A.P.)—G. P. Whaley, president of the Vacuum Oil Co., in a statement today defended his company's policy in respect to trade with Russia, and while admitting a divergence of interest, denied that any ill-will toward other oil companies had been engendered.

The statement followed one issued earlier in the week by Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Co., of New Jersey, denying that his corporation was purchasing oil from Russia, and declaring that Standard of New Jersey will abstain from business relations with Russia as long as the Soviet government "declines to recognize private property rights." This statement followed closely upon announcements that contracts for large amounts of Russian petroleum were held by the Standard of New York and Vacuum Oil Co.

Purchase from Russia will continue, Mr. Whaley said in today's statement, so long as supplies are available on proper terms, and of proper quality, for markets where Russia is the natural economic source. He denied that it was "unfortunate" that only petroleum from Russia because the Soviet government had "wrongfully confiscated from Russian subjects the oil-producing properties, and added:

"The Vacuum Oil Co. believes that trade contracts with Russia will make to treat with them, and decided unification off for the present. Agreement was effected to open a training school, under auspices of the convention, for business, church workers and for young men aspiring to the ministry.

The executive secretary, Dr. S. G. Lamkins, reported need of an office building as a convenient headquarters, and recommended establishment of a printing plant and publication of a weekly paper. Officers elected were: Dr. A. J. Tyler, president; the Rev. S. E. Kaiser, first vice president; the Rev. Cato Roy, second vice president; the Rev. W. H. Bryant, recording secretary; George W. Timms, financial secretary; Dr. S. G. Lamkins, executive secretary; the Rev. R. D. Bots, corresponding secretary; the Rev. J. H. Marshall, treasurer, and the Rev. John Richards, chaplain.

Dr. Daniel Washington was named chairman of the Washington mission board. Dr. J. E. Willis, foreign missions board; Dr. James L. Finn, education board; Dr. L. R. Frayser, city missions and church extension board; Dr. Alexander Millbanks, evangelistic board.

An official welcome will greet the party on its arrival at Toronto on August 6, and the Canadian Club will give a luncheon to Premier Baldwin. A garden party will be held at Government House and an official dinner will be given by the government of Ontario.

On August 7 the party will attend services at the Toronto Cathedral, will visit Niagara Falls and will then leave for Banff, Alberta.

The official outline of the itinerary says that after arriving at Banff on August 10 the Prince of Wales has no further official engagements.

The remainder of the itinerary for Premier Baldwin includes visits to Calgary and Regina on August 12, Winnipeg on August 13, St. John's and Charlottetown on August 16 and Halifax on August 17.

CREDIT OF $25,000,000 TO REICHSBANK IN U. S.

New York Bankers Arrange Loan With Dr. Schacht, It Is Reported.

SUM MAY BE GREATER

New York, July 21 (A.P.)—The New York Times says a credit of at least $25,000,000 for the German Reichsbank has been arranged by a New York banking group, headed by the International Acceptance Bank, Inc.

The credit comes as a result of the recent visit here of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, who, the Times says, conferred with commercial bankers while in this country and attended discussions of the executives of the Bank of England, the Bank of France and Federal Reserve Bank.

Officials of the International Acceptance Bank were extremely incommunicative regarding the credit, the Times says, but from other banks participating in the transaction it was learned that the credit will run for a year and the total may go as high as $50,000,000.

The money will be placed at the disposal of the Reichsbank, the Times says, for its use as it wishes. It is a strictly private banking transaction such as has been arranged in the past by New York bankers for central banks in various parts of the world.

ARLINGTON COUNTY MAN CHIEF SPEAKER AT BULL RUN FIELD

1,000 Attend Exercises Held at Battle Scene of Confederate Victory.

G. O. P. CANDIDATES HOLD
MEETING AT LYON PARK

Addison Avenue Resurfacing
Work Will Not Be Delayed,
Supervisor States.

ARLINGTON COUNTY
BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Cl. 599, Alexandria, Va.

More than 1,000 persons gathered on the Manassas Battlefield at the annual field day held yesterday under the auspices of the Manassas Battlefield Confederate Park Association. President E. W. R. Ewing related an account of the battles there.

Maj. Ewing attacked the statements made by Dr. Samuel M. Johnson at a recent meeting in Arlington County that the new Memorial Bridge across the Potomac connecting Arlington County with the Nation's Capital was in any way a memorial to Gen. Robert E. Lee.

Walter T. Oliver took as his subject "The Confederate Soldier." Large delegations of members of the Daughters of the Confederacy from Arlington and Fairfax Counties and members of the Confederate Southern Memorial Association attended.

Preparations to meet the issues of the campaign facing all candidates for county offices by the Democrats and Independents, the Arlington County Republican committee and the candidates held a meeting at Lyon Park last night and formulated plans for an aggressive campaign.

Chairman J. G. Pepper said that committee will be appointed in each voting precinct.

All fears that there would be any delay in the construction of the concrete road along Addison avenue from the Alexandria-Washington road to Mount Vernon avenue in Jefferson district were cleared when at a mass meeting last night of the citizens of Virginia Highlands, Edward Duncan, member of the board of supervisors from that district, said the work would be rushed to completion regardless of where the water mains would be laid. The remarks were received with loud applause. Two hundred and fifty citizens attended the meeting. The motion made by Frank G. Campbell to have the location of the main changed from Addison avenue to Frazier avenue was lost. Mr. Phillips said that the contract had been awarded for the laying of the main along Addison avenue and could not be changed without a new contract.

In order to cooperate with the zoning commission recently appointed for Arlington County, by the board of supervisors, the Arlington County Monarch Club at its meeting yesterday appointed as a special committee to confer with the commission C. W. Pitch, chairman; A. J. Porter and Walter U. Varney.

Plans for the week-end outing by the club to St. Marys county, Md., were completed and the club will leave following the meeting of August 4.

Aroused from his sleep about 4 o'clock yesterday morning by the crashing of an automobile through the fence at Picketts Hill, near Roslyn, George Pickett rushed to the scene and aided in taking two men from the wreck uninjured. While the car was reported as stolen to the Washington police, the county police have been unable to find any trace of who was in the car at the time of the accident.

Lewis Springer, of Cherrydale, has been appointed a notary public for Arlington County by Gov. Harry F. Byrd.

There will be a meeting of the Alexandria, Arlington and Fairfax Real Estate Board tomorrow night at the George Mason Hotel at Alexandria. Edgar Allen, president of the Virginia Real Estate board, will speak.

Hoboken Medals
To 4 Ocean Fliers

Hoboken, N. J., July 21 (A.P.).—Mayor Guilav Bach today presented medals of the City of Hoboken to four of the five recently returned transatlantic fliers. Lieut. Noville, Bert Acosta, Berni Balchen and Clarence D. Chamberlin, Commander Byrd, leader of the expedition, who was to have received one of the medals at the ceremonies, was unavoidably detained at his hotel in the preparation of his flight log.

From Hoboken the fliers journeyed to Paterson to inspect the Wright Aeronautical plant.

VATICAN ORGAN WARNS AGAINST U. S. MOVIES

"Deadly Poison" for Europe's Civilization Seen in the Educational Films.

"DOLLAR SUPERIORITY"

Rome, July 21 (A.P.).—A warning to Europeans to defend themselves against the influence of American educational moving pictures is sounded tonight in an editorial in the Osservatore Romano, official organ of the Vatican.

The editorial says that these pictures are spreading ideas constituting a "deadly poison" capable of having seriously deleterious effects on European civilization.

"Watch out for these so-called educational films by which America preaches not only to amuse but to instruct us," says the editorial. "America is a very great country whose unconcealed dollar superiority has made it think it possesses also spiritual superiority."

Certain American tendencies, furnished with exceptional gifts of practicality, which consider force as a philosophy and the aphorisms of Henry Ford as criticisms of pure reason, can be adaptable to certain too-modern mentalities, but for our part we find them very defective.

"Americans have built monstrous houses of 50 or more stories, which scrape the skies, but when America was yet unknown we built our cathedrals. This old Europe, whose soil is made of the glorious remains of ten civilizations, can not easily renounce its past to accept blindly an improvised civilization beyond the sea."

"Thus we consider dangerous for our civilization the ever spreading influence of the Hollywood movies. Knowingly or not, they are spreading a mortal poison which can cause us serious consequences. Let us take of the yoke which they are trying to place upon us."

After references to "dollar kings" and the "industrialization of intelligence," the newspaper concludes with an admonition to Americans to retain material primacy, but "we for our part want to maintain that of the spirit."

Soviet Bank Workers
Sentenced to Death

Moscow, July 21 (A.P.).—Charged with embezzlement of 300,000 rubles, three auditors and bookkeepers of the State Bank have been sentenced to death by the supreme court.

MALONE DIVORCE CASE GETS HEARING IN PARIS

Surprise Caused; Wife of the Noted Lawyer Denied She Was Suing.

NO ALIMONY IS SOUGHT

Paris, July 21 (A.P.).—The first hearing of a suit for divorce brought by Doris Stevens, woman suffrage leader, against Dudley Field Malone, international attorney, was held today before the court tribunal of the Seine department. The hearing came as a surprise because only a week ago Miss Stevens flatly denied that she had filed suit against her husband.

At the conclusion of the hearing Mr. Malone told the Associated Press: "In answer to published false statements, I wish to state unequivocally that my wife has never asked for alimony and, therefore, I have never refused her alimony, since neither of us believes in the principle upon which alimony is based."

"My wife is a splendid woman," Mr. Malone continued. "She has the most extraordinary mind I ever came in contact with, and I know that her life will be filled with great happiness and distinguished achievements."

Mr. Malone refused to comment further on the case, but it was learned from friends of both parties that they decided a year ago that they were unable to get along together because they had equally strong minds.

The widow, known attorney, who is especially known for her work as a divorce lawyer, was served with the papers in the suit while away on vacation in Italy, service being accepted by his French counsel.

Miss Stevens' denial that she was going to ask for a divorce is explained by Walter T. Oliver, who is the brother of her and Mr. Malone as proof that she was undecided up to the last moment about taking the step. Those best acquainted with the couple say that their romance is still unquenched, but that there is such an intense incompatibility of temperaments that it was impossible for them to get along together.

Edith McCormick
Must Give Testimony

Chicago, July 21 (A.P.).—The real estate board of the State Department of Registration and Education ruled today that Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick must appear before it and answer certain questions. Previously she refused a telephone subpoena and when finally served with a summons she ignored it.

Senator Roy C. Woods, of the board, said Mrs. McCormick's testimony is wanted in connection with a petition for the revocation of the license of Krenn & Dato, charged with irregularities in the sale of cooperative apartments.

At the hearing today, Senator Woods expressed the opinion that Mrs. McCormick was the firm of Krenn & Dato.

Mrs. Cunningham
To Seek Senate Seat

Galveston, Texas, July 21 (A.P.).—The Galveston News says Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham, Galveston, secretary of the National Woman's Democratic Club, will run for United States Senator in 1928.

Mrs. R. M. Traylor, sister of Mrs. Cunningham, who has arrived here from Washington, stated that Mrs. Cunningham is making plans to become a candidate and will be in Texas next month. For several years Mrs. Cunningham has spent most of her time in Washington.

Slayer of Woman to Die
Springfield, Ill., July 21 (A.P.).—James Hayes, farm hand, of Berlin, near here, who shot and killed a woman with an axe after she had denied him permission to see her daughter, was sentenced today to hang October 21. A new trial was refused.

Phil Wood Will Try Flight to London

Detroit, July 21 (A.P.).—Phil Wood, brother of Car Wood, famous speed-boat pilot, has ordered a Stinson monoplane from the Stinson Aircraft Corporation, with which he will attempt a nonstop flight from Windsor, Ont., to London, England. The proposed flight is being backed by Edmund T. Odette, M. P., from East Essex, Ontario, and Windsor business men.

Wood yesterday said he plans a "Windsor to Windsor" flight, landing as near as possible to the royal residence, Windsor Castle, thus breaking the long-distance record for a single hop. He will be accompanied by C. A. Schiller, of the Canadian Government.

SHIPPING IN TANGLE DUE TO BOSTON FOG

600 Excursionists Are Among Those Delayed; Leviathan
Also Held Up.

Boston, July 21 (A.P.).—Congested Boston Harbor, throttled for 24 hours by the worst fog in years, late this morning began to untangle its delayed shipping and retrieve its stranded excursionists.

Among the many ships which got under way after spending the night at anchor under bellowing horns was the giant Leviathan, which will take its place in drydock for a semiannual overhauling.

The excursion boat Dorothy Bradford with 600 passengers docked today, 12 hours overdue on her return trip from Provincetown. Captain Thatcher, for the second time in his long career, had ordered the ship anchored off Point Allerton rather than risk a harbor entrance.

The 75 staterooms on the boat accommodated all of the women and children while the men found impromptu beds. The ship's orchestra played until 2 a. m. to speed the hours. Radio kept anxious relatives ashore assured of the safety of all.

DAVIES, RADIO PIONEER,
WILL STUDY IN EUROPE

Will Compare Broadcasting as Commercial and Advertising Medium Abroad.

SOLOS PLANNED TONIGHT

Edward Davies, director of broadcasting for station WIP, Philadelphia, will sail next week for a tour of Europe. He will visit France, Italy, Germany, Holland, Belgium and England, and will make a study of the methods used in these countries in the promotion of radio broadcasting, not alone as an entertainment feature but as a commercial and advertising medium.

In a recent interview in Philadelphia, Mr. Davies frankly said his purpose in going to Europe to study the broadcasting situation was not with the idea of learning anything new from the European stations, but was merely as a matter of comparing European with American methods.

Mr. Davies is one of the pioneers in radio broadcasting in America, having taken it up as early as 1919, and is said to have the distinction of being the first voice to be heard by radio from Philadelphia. He is well known in musical circles, having appeared in both opera and concert for many years prior to his taking over the directorship of station WIP.

Viola and cornet solos will be features of the Cities Service Concert orchestra and Cities Service Cavaliers broadcast, under the direction of Rosario Bourdon, from WRC tonight at 7 o'clock. The viola solo will be the "Land of the Sky Blue Water," the idealized Indian theme of the American composer, Charles Wakefield Cadman. Cadman has specialized in the music of the Indians since 1906, and has made original investigations among the Omahas and Winnebagoes. The cornet solo will be the famous "The Lost Chord," by Sir Arthur Sullivan.

A half-hour program, made up entirely of selections by Victor Herbert, will be heard in the Musical Miniature program, planned and led by Harold Sanford, Frances Sebel, soprano, and George O'Brien, tenor, will assist.

Two local features, the W. B. & A. Quartet, and the Lord Calvert Hour of Music, will be heard at 8:30 o'clock, followed at 9:30 by dance music by Roger Wolfe Kahn's Pennsylvania Grill Orchestra and Frank Farrell's Greenwich Village Inn Orchestra.

The Washington-St. Louis Baseball game will be described by Thornton Fisher at 4 o'clock, preceded by a talk "Swimming and Life Saving," by Capt. Charles B. Scully, who is credited with having saved more than 300 lives. He has been life saving instructor at West Point and Annapolis.

Although we have little chance of receiving the programs here, it is always interesting to know what is going on in Pacific Coast broadcasting, and particularly to know that station KFI has purchased the right to broadcast the concert from the famous Hollywood Bowl. A program by 110 of the finest musicians will respond to the baton of Alfred Hertz tonight, about 11 o'clock our time, and those who are fortunate enough to tune in on it will realize the next best thing to sitting under the stars in the Hollywood hills.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will be heard twice during the day and evening from WRC, Boston, as the guest of the city of Boston. The first speech will be made about 3:30 p. m., when the parade from the Boston Airport reaches the common, and Lindbergh, accompanied by prominent civic officials, is given the welcome of Massachusetts and of the city. The activities will be transferred to the Boston arena at 7:30 o'clock, where Lindbergh will make a second speech.

BEAUTY AND YOU

By VIOLA PARIS

THE DRY SCALP

A FEW days ago I was discussing the problem of the dry scalp and how to deal with it. The next most frequent ailment to which the scalp is heir is the very dry condition. When you see hair that has become dry and brittle and has lost its luster, you can be sure that the scalp itself is dry and is not providing sufficient nourishment for the hair. This too dry scalp is usually due to a lack of proper stimulation, and it can sometimes be overcome by the very simple means of a nightly massage of the scalp to increase the circulation and, thus, create the necessary stimulation. The method of this massage is very important, because if only the surface is rubbed, instead of the scalp itself being thoroughly manipulated, more harm than good will be accomplished.

In giving your scalp this massage, the head should be held down, so that the blood will go to the head and aid in the stimulating process. Then, the thumb is held firmly in place and the finger-tips rotate the scalp in a circular motion, moving over the entire head until every section of the scalp has been loosened and circulation revived.

The same oil treatment that was advised for the too oily scalp is excellent for the very dry scalp, since it will supply oil to take the place of the natural oils that the tight, dry scalp has lost. Warm olive oil or balsam oil, or when the scalp is excessively dry, castor-oil, is applied to the scalp with the same rotary motion that has been described. The oil application should be allowed to stay on overnight, so that it may thoroughly saturate the scalp, and the regular shampoo follows in the morning. Brilliantine, too, applied on the hair, aids in bringing the luster to the hair and lends some of its oil to the scalp. If a liquid is needed for setting and arranging the hair, some preparation such as brilliantine or a lotion should always be used in place of water, when the scalp is dry, for water only tends to dry the scalp the more. There are several good lotions that can be purchased to use on the dry scalp, and these also should be massaged into the scalp in the manner described.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

VACATION.

Two weeks to play the dreamer,
The youth, the millionaire,
To shun the world's scheme,
And turn my back on care.
Two weeks of idle pleasure!
How swiftly time will pass!
Along with all my treasure!
But that's the way with fun.

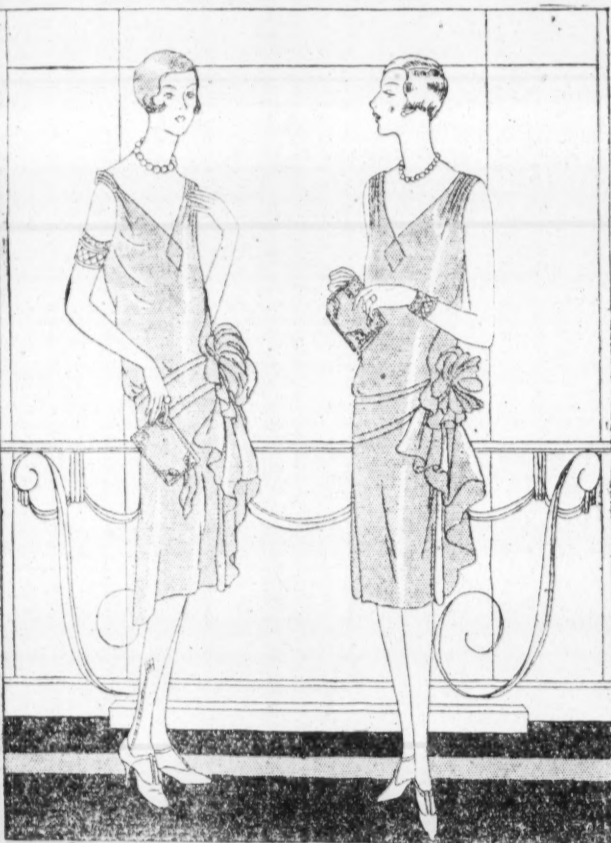

Old Duty drives for fifty,
And cracks his whip at me,
Industrious and thrifty,
And punctual I must be.
Then I must rise to labor,
And envy those who play,
But now there is no neighbor
Whose place I want today.

These weeks men call vacation
From toil will set me free,
The greatest in the nation
No happier can be.
I'll revel deep in beauty,
I'll fish and golf and swim,
And no command from duty
Shall interrupt my whim.

I'll lie where summer breezes
With tipples flute the streams,
And only that which pleases
Shall break upon my dreams.
Should on who rules a nation
In pomp go riding by,
I'll say, on my vacation
As great as you are I.

On Good and Bad Carriage

TOO much stress can not be laid upon the importance of good posture. Aside from its bearing upon one's health and general mental attitude it is the primary step toward smartness. In a room crowded with well-dressed women of all types of beauty there are always some women who stand out from the rest and you will observe that they do so almost invariably because of their dignity of bearing.

In the sketch above we have shown what can happen to a lovely dress when worn by a girl who slouches and one who stands erect. There is an inevitable sloppiness look about the girl at the left. Her dress is all out of line and helter skelter, and seems to fit her badly. It falls off at her shoulders, the hem-line hangs down at the wrong places and the whole effect is muddled and puckered.

The girl at the right is no prettier or better built, but her slim back is straight and supple. On her, the same frock is crisp and neat and has the proper movement. It appears to have been made expressly for her and she moves with the lines of the frock rather than against them, like her slouching sister.

As the title saying has it, the girl on the right always looks as though "she had stepped out of a bandbox," while the other girl's clothes look as though they had been crushed in a suitcase for weeks.

MODISH MITZI

Mitzi and the Goofy got the boat first this morning. It was really necessary for Mitzi to go across the lake—where they have such cunning little shops—and buy herself some more outing dresses like this one of printed linen with short sleeves and contrasting piping.

Printed madras is a notable one of the cotton materials that are so smart this season and this special frock has a yoke, bow and pointed pockets to recommend it. The tiny printed pattern is characteristic of this fabric. Mitzi admires it and herself in it, too, of course.

The Beginning of the End

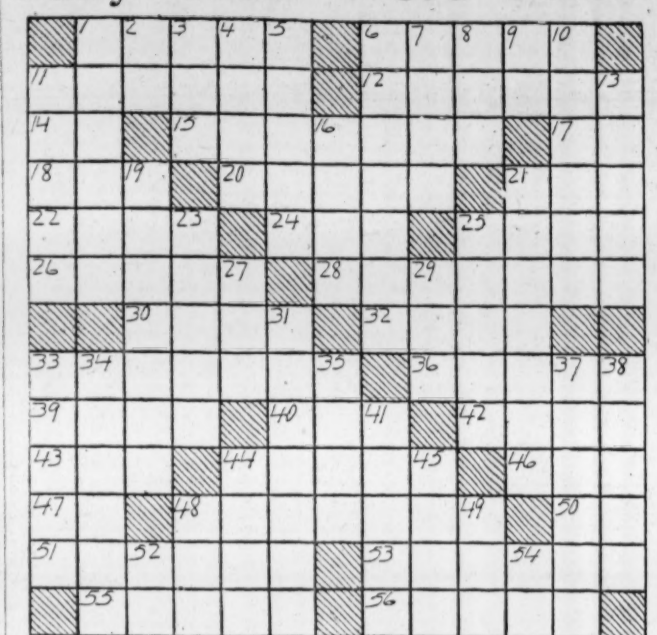

She simply must have at least one more wash silk frock and this will do superlatively well. The tucks around the hips give a tight girldie effect and tucks are the trimming of the short sleeves and rever collar, too. In green tub silk it would harmonize with the scenery.

Mitzi is so glad she wore this hat of two shades of green summer weight felt—because this is really a very interesting young man. It appears that the hotel here is a very attractive one and, after all, aren't the dresses she bought this morning a little too nice to waste on the wilderness?

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Rushing the Prospect.

DEAR MISS M'DONALD—I am very unhappy, and helpless, too. I am a girl of 22 and for three years (at State university) have been great pals with a very fine boy of 24. He has his way to make, and can do it as he never lacks for funds and just goes out and works for what money he needs. He is beyond doubt the man I want to marry. But here is where I am made miserable. My folks are Germans and have old-fashioned ideas. They look upon our three years of comradeship as years of courtship and insist that if this boy really loves me, we should marry now. This just mortifies me. The boy is coming on to see me this September. How can I say dad is going to "have a straight talk" with him. This just breaks my heart. My dad is an electrician and has quite a business, and he wants this boy to go in partnership and marry me. The boy wants to practice dentistry. My father says that is starvation for 10 years. I am frantic. How can I prevent such a terrible thing as my father talking marriage to the man I love. We have never even mentioned such a thing. And I will not for one instant hear of his giving up his chosen work. Please tell me what to say to my father. MARGIA.

Tell your father that if he interferes in your affairs you will leave home and make your way where the rights of the individual are respected. If you are sufficiently firm, you will have no cause to worry. So just act like an adult woman and not a baby woman. Just ask your dad whether he cares to have you remain at home, and no matter how he roars tell him that you are an individual just as he is, and with the same rights.

The youths who are rushed into matrimony by energetic fathers-in-law usually remember the fact in later life. And often have cause to, as they are quite frequently snatched from the groove where they fit and forced into some other that seems to promise more immediate financial return with the result that they are misfits for life—and blame their plight upon marriage, when it is actually due to interfering old souls who have lived their own lives and are all set to live their children's lives for them.

Don't rush your prospect, Marcia, and don't let the neighbors, or dad or anyone else rush him.

Only the weak are victimized in this world, Marcia. Don't be weak.

How Many Can You Answer?

Each question counts ten. If you answer eight correctly, your intelligence rating is 80 per cent. Actual tests reveal the fact in later life. And often have cause to, as they are quite frequently snatched from the groove where they fit and forced into some other that seems to promise more immediate financial return with the result that they are misfits for life—and blame their plight upon marriage, when it is actually due to interfering old souls who have lived their own lives and are all set to live their children's lives for them.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

SMALL TOWN PEOPLE GETTING SICKER

ACCORDING TO DR. B. B. BAGBY, of West Point, Va., the people of the towns and small cities are coming into their own in a health way. If they could only get county health officers in all counties they would be able to prosper and thrive as they have never done before. There are economists who think the next great population movement will be toward towns of this group.

Dr. Bagby shows how some of these small towns are setting their house in order for the expected guest. He was graduated in 1904. In 1909 he located in West Point. In all the years he has there he kept notes on his practice. In 1922 he compared the nature of the sickness then with that of 1909. In 1909 of 158 patients seen in the town 96 had malaria, 15 were babies with cholera, 7 had typhoid fever, 108 had attacks of preventable disease.

In 1922 he had 202 town patients, not one of whom had malaria, typhoid fever or cholera infantum; just one baby had summer complaint, and that was the only case in town; there had not been a case of typhoid fever in town since 1919. The other physician in West Point—Dr. A. S. Hudson—said he did not have a case of malaria, typhoid or dysentery in the summer of 1922.

In 1909 West Point bragged that it was healthy, and it was as compared with the past. However, not a dwelling was completely screened, and most of them had no screens. Every dwelling had an old-fashioned open privy. The mosquito patches were undrained. The chief dairyman doubled at night as a cleaner of privy contents. The scavenger put the privy contents on his vegetable garden and then went straight to the milk pail. Dr. Bagby does not say whether or not he washed his hands between tasks.

Now 80 per cent of the milk is produced under good sanitary conditions. All houses had malaria, typhoid fever screens. The mosquito marshes have been drained. The sale of quinine and chill tonics has fallen off to nothing. The town has sewers and water mains.

Here is a literal quotation: "I have not found a case of hookworm in five years. When I began practice in 1904 in some sections of King William County the school children had a hookworm infestation rate of 100 per cent and many adults were pale, anemic, sick and thin. Thanks to the State Board of Health, these people are now healthy, prosperous and happy. I know of several families of prosperous farmers that are now enjoying touring cars of their own who a few years ago, on account of hookworm, were more or less dependent on charity."

So much for the improvement which has taken place in the towns. The people who live on the farms are still indulging their families in the luxury of preventable disease. They still eat quinine and chill tonics, and typhoid still hovers around. Seventy-five per cent of any rural practice still has infected teeth or tonsils.

Dr. Bagby says: "If we had a competent health unit in each county our people would be healthier and much better off financially."

At that, few States can equal Virginia in the number of its county health officers.

DIPHTHERIA CURE.
Mrs. R. G. writes: "1. What is the cause of diphtheria?
2. Can it be cured?
3. How much antitoxin should a child of 10 have?
4. Is there a cure for it when two days have elapsed before antitoxin was given?"

REPLY.
1. The diphtheria bacillus.
2. Yes.
3. About 10,000 to 15,000 units. Much depends on how much the child is poisoned by the disease and how long the disease has lasted.
4. In most cases there is. The later antitoxin is used the more time is required and the less the chance of recovery.

Thousands of little girls from the business part of town tricked out in greens and blues that would make a parrot look quite dove-like, combinations that were tawdry and perfectly propitious for a working girl on a working day, and hideous for any girl on any day. What possesses them? The neat, dark dress of a French girl in the street is far more attractive and romantic, too. The French girl always looks suitably dressed because she dresses for her occupation and her personality—her character. Girls here dress to call attention to their persons. And one remembers their awful clothes sometimes when one has forgotten their pretty faces—when they were pretty.

What a pity not to dress for the pretty face. It is so easy to set it off without seeming to. I know some girls whom I remember for their faces and their figures when I couldn't tell you what they wore one except that it must have been just right. Yet, the general would rather be recalled for their sumptuously bad color sense.

I know some girls whom I remember for their faces and their figures when I couldn't tell you what they wore one except that it must have been just right. Yet, the general would rather be recalled for their sumptuously bad color sense.

I have come up in the subway with thousands of little girls from the business part of town tricked out in greens and blues that would make a parrot look quite dove-like, combinations that were tawdry and perfectly propitious for a working girl on a working day, and hideous for any girl on any day. What possesses them? The neat, dark dress of a French girl in the street is far more attractive and romantic, too. The French girl always looks suitably dressed because she dresses for her occupation and her personality—her character. Girls here dress to call attention to their persons. And one remembers their awful clothes sometimes when one has forgotten their pretty faces—when they were pretty.

What a pity not to dress for the pretty face. It is so easy to set it off without seeming to. DEMPSEY KNOCKS OUT SHARKEY IN SEVENTH; EARNs RIGHT TO SEEK TITLE FROM TUNNEY

OLD FELLOWS GLAD THAT DEMPSEY WON COMEBACK FIGHT

Crowd's Sympathies With Former Champion in His Successful Effort to Stage Return. Sharkey Yellow, Pegler Believes.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, July 21.—With his right eye gashed and the orb glaring defiantly through a circle of gore, Jack Dempsey potted Jack Sharkey with a neat lick on the jaw and stopped him in the seventh round of their $1,000,000 fight for the Heavyweight vice presidency in the Yankee Stadium this evening.

To spare nobody's feelings in the matter, it looked as though the cantankerous Mr. Sharkey was more than just a wee bit canary or yellow, for he had the presence of mind to do a lot of frantic clutching at his abdomen as he pitched on his face and lay there kicking and wriggling, and refusing to get up when the counting of Jack O'Sullivan, the referee, right by his ear, warned him that his claim of foul had been disallowed.

And to give Sharkey his due, it will be admitted that Dempsey did flick him with a few just below the belt in the 45 seconds of the final round and dropped a few others out of bounds in the round before that, although they were light punches, being deflected downward by Sharkey's guard and losing most of their force that way.

As O'Sullivan crouched almost to the floor to howl the count into Sharkey's ear lest there be any mistake about it, Dempsey fell back, apparently only half hoping the bad one would stay down, for Sharkey had let it be known that he was a very tough fellow indeed.

The crowd, roaring and seething to see over its own leaping heads as all 83,000 customers came up to see the finish, simply went insane as O'Sullivan's arm came up with the quick final stroke that the baseball umpire use to signalize that a fellow wasn't done it.

I believe there was considerable personal animosity and personal elation in the mad noise that went rolling up to the black summer sky because Sharkey had made fierce faces at Dempsey as they stood for almost 10 minutes waiting for tedious introductions of the usual rabble and the crowd was Dempsey's crowd.

To generalize about this sympathy for Dempsey, let us say that old Will Lynch, the telegraph operator who had been dot and dash prize fights with his chin hooked over the ledge of the ring for five and twenty years, represented the emotion of the mass when he jumped to his feet as Dempsey came back to his corner after bumping Sharkey around in the fourth, knocked his sending bug off the shelf and pounded the canvas with the flat of his hands, babbling, "Kill him, kill him. There's life in us old fellows yet."

There were a lot of elderly fellows, 35 and beyond, in the crowd, and when Dempsey won and Leo P. Flynn, his new manager, tumbled through the ropes to leap upon him, the air was full of slightly used straw hats that came sailing out of the shadows of a whole world centered around the little pyramid of milky light at the ring.

Some of them bounced off Dempsey's shoulders and one of them cart-wheeled crazily across the floor after Sharkey's dragging toes as Johnny Buckley, his beefy manager, lagged him back to his corner and the company of the false alarms.

Little Jerry the Greek, Dempsey's number one and the true crowd ever did have, who called Gene Tunney a number of extremely vulgar names and volunteered to lick him in person on an amateur basis the day after Tunney beat Dempsey last fall, scrambled up the steps and into the ring just after Flynn and had to take a second hug. Dempsey was swept across the ring to the radio microphone to say a few words, which he did, then turned back to add something. Hands were reaching out of the press row and Dempsey reached down with his soggy gloves, his face still smeared with blood from the cut on his eye.

The fight started as though Dempsey couldn't win, for Sharkey seemed stronger and he certainly was faster at the beginning. In fact, I think he was strong enough at the finish, because it looked to me as though he was just a quitter who curled up when hurt and risked his million on a claim of foul. But there was no foul at all in the finishing flurry, and the punches that Dempsey threw at him just then were not worse than 30 other punches that Sharkey had laughed away before his confidence began to leave him.

After the fight Sharkey still complained of illegal practices on the part of Dempsey, so two doctors examined him. The medical gentlemen divided on strict geographical lines. Dr. Walker, of the New York commission, a brother of his honor, Mayor J. Walker, finding no symptoms of malpractice and Dr. John Hunter, of the Massachusetts commission, reporting evidence of dirty work on the left side of Sharkey's abdomen.

In the first round Sharkey had Dempsey on the ropes with his head rolling, his hands down and a stringy slobber falling from his lips, and for a few seconds there it looked as though Dempsey would never go to his corner under his own power.

Dempsey didn't hurt himself in with his old right-skillet attack, but went to his right, walking sideways and drawing Sharkey out of his corner to meet him in the angle of one of the extra corners. Just before their bodies met in a clinch Dempsey lashed out with a right and missed and as soon as they locked they began pumping both hands at the body.

The first volley landed on unpro-

Monte, From Sharkey Tunney, Byrd, Many Camp, Knocks Out Other Notables Are at Ringside.

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, July 21 (A.P.).—Reversing the order at baseball games by filling the field and overflowing into the grand stand and bleachers, 82,000 persons tonight paid $1,100,000 to see Jack Dempsey come back at the expense of Jack Sharkey trying desperately to arrive.

The crowd was slow to assemble. Early in the evening it was much easier to count the people than the seats, but with the preliminaries under way the tide of humanity flowing over the dam into the stadium began to flow with greatly accelerated speed and 45 minutes before the principals were to enter the ring the gang was all here. It was a sell-out. What Tex Rickard called the "big shots" never are, but the famous promoter wore a broad smile when his treasurers reported. It was the closest approach to a sell-out he has known in his big open-air events here.

The weather was kind. The star-studded sky was missing, but the clouds were not scowling. A frown was the most serious charge that could be brought against the heavens, which were high and dark.

Even the pessimists decided long before the "big bout" that there would be no rain and some were sitting on their raincoats and holding their umbrellas in reserve for use as defensive weapons for possible use in defending their seats.

The boys in the far-away bleachers were at a disadvantage. They could yell but the shouts did not mean anything, for the referees and judges had too much territory between to be impressed.

Gene Tunney, world's heavyweight champion, sat on the first row as he went for the appearance of the veteran who defeated and the youngster who has often and loudly proclaimed that Tunney is not a champion to him.

Tunney came in during the second preliminary and took a seat in the first row. He was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Gimbel. The champion was not recognized by the crowd at large, but was given a hearty greeting by his neighbors as he took his seat.

Tunney seemed in rare good humor, finally laughing out loud. The third preliminary was over before he could get settled, but he watched the maneuvers of Sandy Seifert and Wyoming Warner with interest. "Big Bill" Edwards added his great size to swell the attendance of famous football men.

Sandy Seifert, veteran Pittsburgh heavyweight, stopped the knockout winning streak of Wyoming Warner, Cheyenne youngster, by winning a six-round decision. The crowd boomed the verdict.

Sandy beat the youngster rather badly about body, but took a steady barrage of solid right-hand shots to the

FIGHT BY ROUNDS

By JACK FARRELL.

FIRST ROUND.—The fight started at 9:40. Sharkey rushed out and missed a left hook. Dempsey waded in and Sharkey held in clinch. Dempsey bored in and patted Sharkey with a two-handed body attack. They exchanged some vicious short punches in a clinch. Sharkey tried to duck, but Dempsey held him. Sharkey closed in and missed right to the head. Sharkey jabbed lightly and Dempsey closed in, hammering with both hands to the body. Dempsey pinned Sharkey on the ropes, but Sharkey snapped his head back with a left. Sharkey missed a terrific right uppercut and two lefts for the head. Dempsey tried to do some fighting, but Sharkey ducked under his arms. Sharkey landed three left hooks to the jaw and Dempsey was floundering in a groggy condition and Dempsey held on. Again Sharkey hooked left to the jaw and Dempsey held on for dear life. Dempsey was wobbly as he went to his corner. Jerry the Greek worked feverishly on Dempsey's legs between rounds. The round was even.

SECOND ROUND.—Sharkey missed a long one to the head and rushed Dempsey half way across the ring, taking right and left. Dempsey pinned Sharkey on the ropes with lefts to the body. Sharkey complained Dempsey was hitting low. Sharkey again jabbed Dempsey with a left hook to the body. They clinched. Dempsey was not his old weaving self and tried to box it with Sharkey. Sharkey again unleashed a two-handed attack and Dempsey wobbled under the punches. Sharkey played a steady tattoo of hits on Dempsey's face without a comeback. Dempsey socked a left to Sharkey's midriff and started a glorious rally. Sharkey appeared to be hurt and went into a clinch. Dempsey socked a left to the jaw and a right to the body, but Sharkey straightened him up with lefts to the body. The blood was coming from Sharkey's mouth and Dempsey had a small cut below his right eye. Dempsey's round.

THIRD ROUND.—Sharkey came out confident. Sharkey drove left to the stomach and Sharkey nailed Dempsey with a left hook to the head. Dempsey hooked left to the jaw twice and they clinched. Dempsey tore in and Sharkey took a right and left to the body. Dempsey knocked down a left lead and then sent right to the body. They mauled and hauled in a clinch. The former champion was puffing and appeared to be a trifle unsteady on his pins. Dempsey kept right after Sharkey with his left and the Bostonian kept backing away. Dempsey pinned Sharkey on the ropes and patted him with right to the head and lefts to the body. Dempsey threw in another left and right, but Sharkey walked in with left and right to the head, straightening him up. Sharkey slipped in his own corner as Dempsey nailed him with a left to the body as he was going down at the bell. Round even.

FOURTH ROUND.—Sharkey came out fresh and confident. He reached with a left and threw a right to the head, but Dempsey danced away from it. Dempsey closed in and battered Sharkey's stomach with rights and lefts. Sharkey backed away from the attack. Dempsey kept crowding Sharkey, but the latter wiggled out of it. Dempsey came out of a clinch with his right eye cut bad. Sharkey kept jabbing Dempsey with lefts and rights to the head, but the old ex-champion fought back gamely. Sharkey continued to maul Dempsey. Dempsey crowded Sharkey into neutral corner, forcing him to cover up, with a vicious right to the heart. Sharkey missed right and left and was trying to box as Dempsey clipped right to the jaw. Sharkey again tried to hold on as Dempsey sent in a murderous body attack. Dempsey was fighting furiously at the bell. Dempsey's round.

FIFTH ROUND.—Dempsey circled Sharkey and missed left to the head. Sharkey jabbed with several light lefts. Sharkey hooked light left to the head and Dempsey blocked several more lefts with his right glove. They went into another clinch but Sharkey held on tight. Dempsey planted a solid right under Sharkey's heart and the latter danced out of reach. Sharkey brought the blood from Dempsey's nose with a straight left. He measured Dempsey with several rights and then hooked right to the jaw. Sharkey missed right to the head and tried to fight in close, but Sharkey blocked him off. Sharkey jabbed Dempsey with left and right to the head and the old boy wobbled. Dempsey hooked right under the heart. Dempsey hooked hard with left to the chin, but the blow did not appear to shake the confident Sharkey. Sharkey's round.

SIXTH ROUND.—Dempsey was short with two left jabs and Sharkey missed with a left hook. Dempsey crowded Sharkey into his own corner and hooked both hands to the body. Dempsey hooked to the kidneys in a clinch. Dempsey missed a wild right and they clinched. Sharkey missed a right to the head. Dempsey weaved and followed Sharkey. Sharkey hooked Dempsey with a right uppercut and Dempsey appeared to be hurt. Dempsey fell into a clinch and Sharkey did not hold on. Dempsey punished Sharkey severely with rights to the stomach in close quarters. Dempsey shook Sharkey up with a left hook and with a right to the jaw. Dempsey kept dribbling lefts to the jaw after the bell and Sharkey turned around and repaid the compliment. The crowd boomed the act.

SEVENTH ROUND.—Dempsey charged in with both hands to stomach. Sharkey retaliated with lefts and rights to head. Dempsey hooked Sharkey with a right to the body and when Sharkey turned to complain he was hit with a left to the jaw and he was KNOCKED OUT.

When Sharkey was hit with that terrible left he fell flat on his face and there was not a quiver made by him until Referee O'Sullivan had reached the count of eight. Then he tried to get up on his feet but fell back on the floor. Referee O'Sullivan and Dempsey picked him up, aided by Sharkey's seconds, and carried him to his corner. There was a demonstration after this sensational knockout. Straw hats were tossed into the ring by the dozen and Referee O'Sullivan had a busy time throwing them out in all directions. Johnny Buckley, manager of Sharkey, protested vigorously to the referee that the left to the stomach that started Sharkey on his slumber trip was a foul one. But the referee paid no attention to him. Sharkey then turned his attention to Dempsey's manager, Leo P. Flynn, but he told the Boston manager to "write it on ice."

It seemed to me that the right was delivered right above the waist line. The force of it probably was felt in all parts of Sharkey's body, and there was indeed no question as to the legitimacy of the swishing left hook with which the game Manassah Mauler had felled the overconfident Mr. Sharkey for keeps. Sharkey was booed and hissed to the echo and hats were fired at him from every direction as he walked back to his dressing room.

"Certain Something" Gives Dempsey Drawing Power

Rickard Recalls First Meeting With Fighter Who Retains Popularity Despite Being Often in Unfavorable Light.

NEW YORK, July 1 (A.P.).—The drawing power of Jack Dempsey first time I laid eyes on him out in Denver. Rickard analyzed it as a "certain something" and Rickard is in a better position than anyone else to speak about it. He has paid Dempsey more money than any other athlete in the world has earned.

"You should have seen Dempsey the first time I laid eyes on him out in Denver," Rickard said today. "He had a couple days' growth of beard; he wore a 'tough' cap and looked as though he hadn't eaten much. You never would have thought that he could be the nice, clean-cut fellow he is when he's dressed up a bit. But I liked him from the start. There was that certain something about him."

"The certain something" color second only to that of Babe Ruth, tonight will have earned Dempsey a round $2,000,000 for his share in a major pugilistic contest, since he battered Jess Willard out of the title in 1919.

He was criticized severely for not fighting for Uncle Sam. Thousands who lost money on Dempsey in the Tunney fight came away with the conviction that the contest was "in the bag" before it started. Dempsey's break with Jack Kearns and his remodeled "movie" nose were other incidents dotting his career that put him in an unfavorable light.

Out of it all he has emerged today more popular than ever before, though

Yankee Stadium, New York, July 21 (A.P.).—The tip-tearing Jack Dempsey of old came back tonight to smash his way to a spectacular knockout victory over the young Boston heavyweight, Jack Sharkey, and gain the right to a return match with Gene Tunney.

While a vast, deliriously excited throng of 82,000 spectators cheered him on, the former heavyweight champion rallied after a wobbly start, bored through Sharkey's defense with a smashing attack and brought the 24-year-old sailor down for the count of ten in the seventh round of what was to have been a fifteen-round match.

A terrific right hook to the pit of the stomach doubled up Sharkey, and a crashing left to the jaw brought the Boston giant down for the fatal count after only 45 seconds of fighting in the seventh round.

So close to the border line was Dempsey's crushing right—the really decisive blow—that Sharkey started to claim a foul, only to go tumbling down in a moment from the impact of Dempsey's left hand. The referee, Jack O'Sullivan, at first seemed puzzled as to what to do, but finally decided to ignore the excited yells of Sharkey's seconds. He finished the count in unison with the official knock-down timer, and waved Sharkey out.

Sharkey's handlers persisted in their protests after the fight, but their attempted action was drowned in the wild outburst that came from the huge throng, most of which had come to cheer the 32-year-old former champion in his colorful comeback.

It was a sudden climax to one of the most dramatic heavyweight battles ever staged, a slashing, mauling struggle, in which Dempsey, defying the craft and stamina of Sharkey's youth, demonstrated that he had come a long way back from the floundering form that cost him his title last fall.

Staggered and badly shaken up by vicious left hooks to the jaw toward the end of the first round and jarred frequently by Sharkey's stiff counter wallops, Dempsey fought on and won because he refused to be beaten back or balked.

Stunned or shaken as he was at first, Dempsey had the resources to come back, keep plunging in, backing through his slumps and jared with short left and right hooks. His right eye cut and streaming blood, his lips split by vicious jabs, his face a fair bit of a mess, he had the power to keep plunging in until he won.

The vast crowd, which paid close to $1,100,000 to see the spectacle, was thrilled by Dempsey's sensational, doggedly persistent fight to victory against Sharkey, who had seemed to have him at the start. The former champion's old speed, the fighting spark that made him the vicious "Manassa Mauler" of the club began to glow again. The younger, speedier and more clever Sharkey outstayed and outboxed the former champion and when he clubbed Dempsey with a series of terrific blows toward the close of the first round, the end seemed in sight.

It was such a first round last September that Dempsey lost his title to his downfall at Tunney's hands. But tonight he had the stamina and gameness to fight back to a victory that seemed out of his grasp when the gong ended the first round and he wobbled to his corner.

Somewhere Dempsey had gained a new store of strength. His old speed was not quite returned nor were his blows as sharp, but he had the stuff to keep battering, flailing away at his younger rival, growing stronger instead of weaker as Sharkey tried in vain with hooks and uppercuts to beat the former champion off.

In the sixth round through the sixth it was a slashing, mauling, head-to-head conflict in which Dempsey directed his attack chiefly to Sharkey's body while the sailor tried to hit his way clear, ripping in left and right hooks which sometimes slowed up and cut Dempsey, but which never stopped his forward advance. Blood spattered from Dempsey's eye under the impact of left jabs and he spat blood frequently from his mouth, but it did not halt him.

The fury and bulldog grit of Dempsey's drive enabled him to fend Sharkey even in the second round, after the first had gone to the sailor, and outpoint his young rival in the third, fourth and fifth rounds. Sharkey carried off the sixth as he speared Dempsey with rights and lefts, sending the ex-champion back, but the spirit of Manassa Mauler flared up in a slashing finish that had Sharkey on the run at the gong and paved the way for the big climax in the first minute of the next round.

Until his finish, Sharkey, it seemed, always was the stronger as well as the faster, but he was beaten, apparently because he fought almost exclusively on the defensive from the first round on. Perhaps Sharkey's plan of battle was to lay back, holding off Dempsey until the latter tired, then leap to the attack. If so, he delayed too long and lost his chance to fight for the championship of the world, at least this year. If not, it was because he found Dempsey's attack too furious and persistent to stand or to counter.

There was no question that Sharkey's hitting accuracy was far from its usual high mark. His right, the blow that

They were a colorful contrast in personality as well as fighting style. In the ring, dark, nervous, swinging from side to side, Dempsey kept plunging in, arms close to his body, pumping like pistons, while Sharkey, pale by comparison and a snarl on his lips, chopped, hooked and swung with sweeping blows that more often missed than connected.

Sharkey, famous for his confidence, seemed much the cooler as they came into the ring and as the fight started. Dempsey was jumpy, kept on edge, more like the man who floored Flippo four years ago than the uncertain, almost dazed figure that stepped into the ring against Tunney last year. But as the fight went on, it was Dempsey who seemed to have the confidence. It was Dempsey who punched and always able to bore in after taking stinging shots to the head.

There was little warning of the prospect of a fair fight, as the two men gathered again, head-on, in the seventh round. Dempsey drove to the body with both hands, as he had done consistently in the close range since a vicious right to the mid-section. Sharkey doubled up, then started to turn his head toward the referee to show no evidence of injury in the face. But the referee's eyes were still locked together for a moment, then Dempsey whipped up a terrific left hook and the sailor went down in a heap, sprawled on all fours, his head below the waistline.

Ringside opinion varied as to Dempsey's right to the body. Some critics, however, it appeared to have been a fair blow. Sharkey loosed its outburst and as hats sailed to the ring.

Later, in Sharkey's dressing room, examination by Dr. William Walker, the commission's official physician, showed no evidence of injury in the groin, but at the same time was deep and others claim it was palpably low. To the majority, however, it appeared to have been a fair blow. Sharkey loosed its outburst and as hats sailed to the ring.

The vast majority of the crowd entertained no doubts, apparently, of Dempsey's victory. Dempsey was the sentimental favorite from the start, cheered wildly at every surge forward, at every stance, whether he shook Sharkey back or clipped the sailor with his powerful hooks.

Dempsey Gives Flynn Full Credit in Fight

New York, July 21 (A.P.).—Jack was as fresh as if he were just about to enter the ring rather than at the close of one of the most terrific fights of his career. Two small cuts showed under his eyes, but neither was deep and no stitches were necessary to close the wounds.

Statue Jack plans to leave for Los Angeles for a few weeks' vacation before returning to train for the title match with Gene Tunney in September. He does not know where he will undergo preparations for the championship fight.

In his final word, Dempsey asked that full credit be given Leo P. Flynn, his new manager for the part the "Fox" played in the comeback.

"Leo held me back in training," Jack said, "and probably kept me from leaving any fight in the training camp. He kept me drilling for strength and that told after the third round when I first felt Sharkey beginning to weaken."

"It was a tough fight, one of the fiercest I ever had, but I won. I'm back on the road to my old championship, and I won't quit until I get it."

PROFIT TAKING REDUCES
EARLY GAINS OF BONDS

Easy Money Induces Buying of High-Grade Issues.
Erle D 4s at New High.

OIL OBLIGATIONS ARE FIRM

New York, July 21 (Associated Press).—Easy money conditions today tended to encourage buying of high grade bonds, but the volume of business reached no greater proportions than in several recent sessions. Profit taking late in the day set down some of the early gains, and the movement on the whole was toward higher ground. The recent upward movement in corporate and speculative issues was checked by the shifting of interest from the oil industry to other fields, and by the offering of interest-bearing bonds at a new high. Early in the day, Erle D 4s dropped the gain, but later lost all the gain. Delaware & Hudson 4s dropped the gain, and International Telephone 4 1/2s were offered freely. Third Avenue adjustment 4s continued their march upward, again attaining a new high. But other traction bonds, including the New York City 4 1/2s, Brooklyn Manhattan Transit 4s, and others, were offered in fairly large amounts. New Haven 3 1/2s attracted attention with a gain of 3 points, and quick accumulation of such issues as "Frisco" and Lake Shore 4s was again in evidence. Obligations of oil companies were firm, probably as a result of new confidence created by a 5-point recession in Phillips Petroleum 5 1/2s on the dissolution of the offering syndicate. Shell Union 5s and several of the Sinclair issues were briskly purchased. French securities were easy, but most of the foreign issues brought slightly better prices. The United States Government group exhibited considerable firmness, but transactions were limited. Public offering of the $20,000,000 Detroit International Bridge Co. 6 1/2s and 7s is scheduled for tomorrow, both priced at par and interest.
